

Won't rubber stamp recommendations

Shafer affirms stand against public strikes

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer reiterated his opposition Wednesday to giving public employees the right to strike and charged Philadelphia area Democrats with trying to make his position a political issue.

Shafer told a news conference he was surprised at a statement made earlier in the day by Bernard N. Katz, a Philadelphia labor lawyer who served on the Governor's Commission to Revise the Public Employee Law of Pennsylvania.

Katz had said it was disturbing for the commission to recommend giving public employees the right to strike and then have the governor reject the recommendation.

"You don't appoint a commission and rubber stamp its recommendations," Shafer said when asked to respond to Katz' criticism.

Noting that his administration had included most of the commission's recommendations in proposed new legislation, the governor said:

"I just don't think the health, safety and education of our citizens should be hostages on the bargaining table."

Shafer then went further and suggested that Katz' statement came at the urging of Democratic leaders.

"I believe it was politically motivated in the Philadelphia area just before the election," the governor said. "I don't think it mirrors his true feelings. Mr. Katz was a good member of the commission and he was fully aware of my position long before this."

In Philadelphia, Katz had demanded an explanation of Shafer's reason for rejecting the recommendation which would have allowed public employees to strike as long as the public health, safety and welfare were not adversely affected.

"A great deal of thought and evaluation went into the allowance of the right to strike and the limitations within which it would be permitted," Katz said.

"Your total rejection of these provisions is in fact a rejection of the work of the commission. At the very least, it would seem to me an explanation is due both the commission and the public..."

The bill the Shafer administration introduced in the House would provide for collective bargaining between public employees and their employers and further provide for compulsory arbitration.

Allies discover enemy troops estimated to total 100,000

Peace envoys in clash

PARIS (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese envoys clashed Wednesday on the key peacemaking issue of who has the right to speak for the South Vietnamese people at the negotiating table. Speculation about an agreement on a bombing halt remained speculation.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman challenged Hanoi's claim that the National Liberation Front (NLF) was anything more than North Vietnam's "agent in the south."

Ambassador Xuan Thuy assailed the Saigon government of President Nguyen Van Thieu as "U.S.-paid" and said it had been installed by "fraud and force."

Though the two sides urgently argued for a move to pierce the deadlock at the 27th session of the Paris peace talks, they separated without making any visible advance toward a solution.

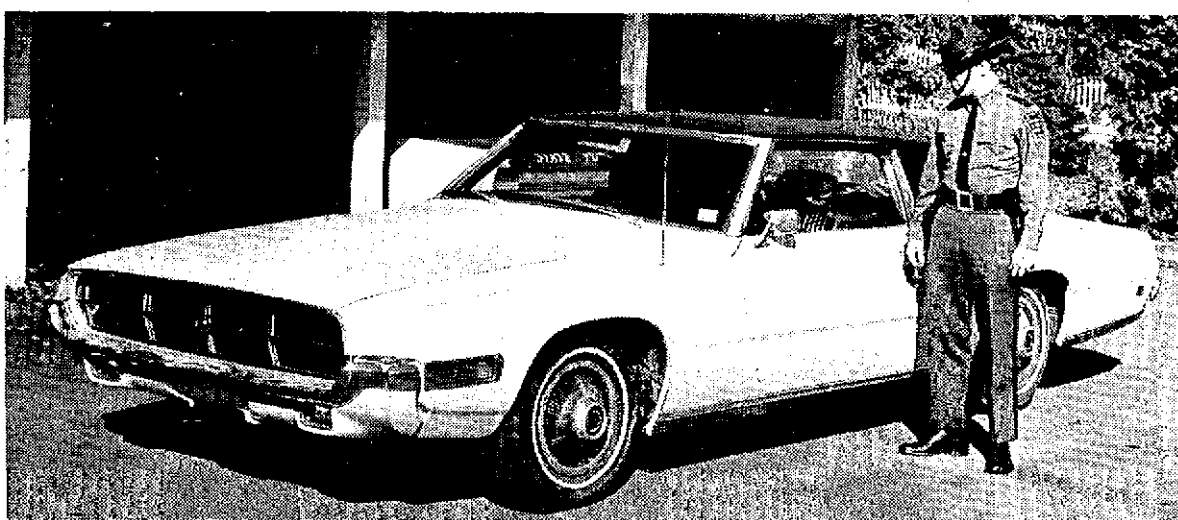

The fact that both Harriman and Thuy concentrated their arguments on the legality of U.S. allies in the South seemed to confirm that this issue is a stumbling block in secret exchanges between Hanoi and Washington.

A recent U.S. peace initiative linked a total halt in American air attacks on North Vietnam to an agreement on how South Vietnam should be represented at the bargaining table, allied diplomats have reported.

U.S. officials were reported still awaiting Hanoi's reply to the bombing halt proposal.

In Washington, White House press secretary George Christian reiterated a statement of Oct. 16 that there has been no basic change in the Vietnam situation.

But Secretary of State Dean Rusk met in Washington with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin amid speculation that the Soviet Union is actively involved in the peacemaking.

State Trooper Thomas Brennan looks at the 1969 Thunderbird owned by Alfred L. Barnes, 41, of Bethlehem. The car was discovered Tuesday morning by a forest warden on a lonely fire lane on Millbrook Mountain, about seven miles north of Blairstown. The car has been returned to Pennsylvania and impounded by State Police.

Dead man's car impounded

Police seek clues in killing

STROUDSBURG — State Police have impounded a car owned by a man who was found shot to death in a West End field and are continuing their step-by-step investigation.

The investigation centers around the death of Alfred L. Barnes, Bethlehem Steel Co. employee who was found in the field Saturday.

Lt. Andrew Baigis, officer in charge of the investigation from Hazleton, Wednesday asked persons in the Monroe County area to aid State Police if they can and that all names and information will be kept in strict confidence.

Police have learned that Barnes had visited many resorts in the Poconos and are asking persons who knew him or knew when he visited the resorts to contact the nearest State Police barracks and give the information.

Many of the places in the county are known to police, but information about recent visits will be helpful, Baigis said.

"Barnes was no doubt a victim of foul play," Baigis said.

The blood-spattered car was found Tuesday at 14 a.m. on a lonely fire lane on Millbrook Mountain by Charles "Chick" Anderson of Columbia, N.J.

Anderson said the car had blood on a door window and seat.

Police have "dusted the car" for fingerprints and have taken samples of the blood found inside the car. The fingerprints will be sent to the Federal Bureau's laboratory in Washington for a check and classification. The blood samples will be sent to State Police

Alfred L. Barnes

Laboratory in Harrisburg for testing.

Monroe County District Attorney Phillip Williams Wednesday said it is possible that an inquest may be held but added it is up to Monroe County Coroner John C.F. Poelker to make that decision.

Poelker said there was a possibility of an inquest being called but he is withholding his decision pending reports from State Police investigators.

Lt. Baigis said no motive has been established yet and that robbery as a motive has been ruled out.

Apollo cast comes home

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 7's smiling astronauts flew back to this spaceport Wednesday, thanked their launch crew for the "great send-off" and retired to seclusion to report to engineers and doctors the fine details of their 11-day space mission.

What they tell the experts in three days of debriefings here and another week at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston will have a bearing on whether the three-man Apollo 8 crew will make a trip around the moon in December.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration expects to make a decision on Apollo 8 by mid-November.

Looking relaxed after a night aboard the aircraft carrier Essex, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham alighted from two planes that ferried them from the carrier.

Eisele learned Wednesday that President Johnson had approved his promotion to lieutenant colonel. The Air Force had submitted it before the flight.

They looked at a big banner which read "Welcome Back Wally, Donn, Walter" and acknowledged the cheers of more than 500 space workers assembled at the Cape Kennedy airstrip, which is barred to the public. Schirra stepped to a microphone and thanked them.

"The best part of course is to come home," he said. "We were here for a number of months but we left rather suddenly. Now we're back. It's a real treat to be looking at the people who gave us the great send-off."

Eisele said, "It's great to be back. Thank you for the warm welcome."

Referring to Schirra's two previous space flights, Cunningham said, "Wally's been through this return several times. But it's not old hat to Donn and I. Thank you very much."

A row of girls, restrained by ropes and security police, asked the astronauts to come over and see them.

"We don't have the courage," laughed Schirra. "We've been away too long."

The crowd cheered.

Then America's newest space heroes were whisked by limousine to their crew quarters at the Kennedy Space Center. After lunch, they had an hour-long medical examination and then began technical discussions on many aspects of their perfect flight that ended Tuesday with a landing in the Atlantic Ocean.

HHH best for nation: Muskie

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Vice President Humphrey, "a man who lives and breathes people," will be elected president if the voters have the "plain guts" to choose the best path for the country, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said Wednesday night.

Muskie, Humphrey's vice presidential running mate on the Democratic ticket, made the comment as he opened a campaign swing through Pennsylvania.

Muskie was scheduled to remain here overnight, campaign by car through five Pennsylvania counties en route to Harrisburg today, remain there tonight.

Before crossing into Pennsylvania, Muskie urged 2,500 students at Seton Hall University in South Orange, N.J., to work to elect Humphrey.

"The new president," he said, "will need not only to be a great persuader, but capable of being persuaded."

Wallace managers hope to draw 20,000 in Madison Square Garden

By ROBERT S. VAN FLEET
Chief, Ottaway News Service

NEW YORK CITY — The high point of the George C. Wallace presidential campaign to capture New York State's 43 electoral votes is scheduled for tonight at a rally in Madison Square Garden that his managers say is "sold out."

(Related story on page 13)

After campaigning Wednesday in Ohio and Virginia, Wallace is scheduled to fly into New York this afternoon for a $25-a-plate dinner at the Americana Hotel and a speech to a hoped-for audience of 20,000 in the garden.

A counter-rally, called "Answer To Wallace," is to be held at noon today in the city's garment district by Paul O'Dwyer, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate. Sponsors of the anti-Wallace rally hope to attract more people than the former Alabama governor draws.

Harris Wallace aides in New York, making final preparations for the rally, said Wednesday that they think the affair will be orderly and that the current slowdown by city police will not interfere with assignment of enough patrolmen to secure the area.

The city has been troubled this week by a shortage of patrolmen because members of the police association have been reporting in sick to protest what they consider an inadequate salary offer by the Lindsay administration.

Wallace, seeking the presidency in New York as the nominee of the Courage party, is not presently scheduled to make any further appearances here before the Nov. 5 election.

Rather, he plans to conclude his third-party campaign in more friendly territory next week. When he leaves New York, he will go to Pennsylvania and New Jersey on Friday and then on to Indiana and Ohio Saturday before flying home to Montgomery, Ala., for the weekend.

The final week of the campaign is scheduled for the south and mid-west, generally in states he has visited before and where he expects a friendly reception.

There is no indication that he will suffer any more heckling in New York than he has in other stops. In fact, if campaign managers adhere to their policy of admission by ticket only, there appears little chance that there will be major disturbances inside the hall.

Demonstrations outside are possible, however.

Ned Irish, President of the Garden, said admission will be by ticket only. He said some newspaper and radio advertising had given the erroneous impression that people might just walk through the gates.

BOSTON (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing says he rejected requests from persons identified with the late President Kennedy's administration and "others intimately related...with the Kennedy family" that he try to stop the marriage of Jacqueline Kennedy and Aristotle Onassis.

"I would have no part" of the requests, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston and close friend of the Kennedy family said in urging that "civitas, charity" be shown toward the late president's widow.

"This idea of saying she's excommunicated, she's a public sinner, what a lot of nonsense," he said. "Only God knows who is a sinner, who is not."

"There are so many ramifications with regard to anything that might be considered as sinful that only God Almighty could really interpret them and manifest His infinite love for the sinner, while at the same time despising the sin."

At the Vatican, Msgr. Fausto Vallinich said Wednesday of the cardinal's remarks: "As far as I am concerned no declarations from here have been made on the Cardinal Cushing affair nor should it be expected that the Vatican will say anything about it."

Cardinal Cushing said he has received mail condemning Mrs. Kennedy, "condemning me and condemning the church," and asked: "Why can't she marry whomever she wants to marry, and why should I be condemned and why should she be condemned?"

"I have my faults, undoubtedly, she has hers."

"That's not the point. The point is that if we ever are going to get anywhere in uniting this nation we have to use all our efforts to charity, in love, in mutual respect and esteem for one another."

Noting that he has "very close relationships with Jacqueline Kennedy" because he officiated at her marriage to the late president and baptized their children, Cardinal Cushing said she visited him secretly a week ago for a two-hour talk.

"My lips are sealed," the cardinal said. "I cannot tell anything about the private, very private conversation I had with her... No matter what I said to her she was already committed to this marriage months ago, and I knew it."

Nixon frets over Humphrey's diplomacy

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Republican Richard M. Nixon Wednesday questioned the peace-keeping ability of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, saying his Democratic rival has proven unable to treat discreetly either the war in Vietnam or the effort to negotiate its end.

"What he brings to that problem is this—the fastest, loosest tongue ever in American politics," the Republican presidential nominee told a rally of more than 2,000 people in a chilly airport hangar.

His assault on Humphrey as a man too talkative for delicate diplomacy came in his speech and in a written campaign statement which said:

"When a man is on all sides of an issue he creates a great risk of miscalculation on the part of our adversaries."

Nixon said President Johnson and his administration "have been unable to keep peace abroad."

"To this dismal record, my opponent brings the fastest, loosest tongue in the nation and the fastest switch of position ever seen in American politics."

"Mr. Humphrey has shown a constitutional inability to treat the Vietnam War and the Paris negotiations discreetly..."

It's a funny game

Clark raps foe on city issues

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark chided his Republican opponent Wednesday for what he termed failure to show "concern or compassion for the problems of poor city residents."

The Republican aspirant for Clark's seat in the U. S. Senate, Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, also was campaigning in the Harrisburg area. In a statement issued here, Schweiker said he was calling on the House Ethics Committee for an investigation of what he termed "irregularities" in the recording of his votes in the House.

Schweiker said he wanted to correct the record, because the "only real issues involved are the efficiency and honesty of Congress."

Clark put in appearances at various locations during the day in Harrisburg and Steelton. He told his audiences that he had sponsored an "Emergency Employment and Training Act" this year which would have provided the needed jobs for the unemployed.

Clark said he wanted to close the "job gap consisting of 2.4 million persons throughout the nation who are both able and willing to work, but for whom no jobs exist in the country."

Oysters tested in pollution

POCONO MANOR, Pa. (AP) — A New York state official described Tuesday how thermal pollution—heated wastes added to streams and lakes—may improve oyster production.

David H. Wallace, deputy director of Fish and Game for the Marine Region of New York's Conservation Department, described a series of tests underway near Long Island Sound.

"Preliminary results seem promising," he said at a meeting of the Delaware River Basin Water Resources Conference.

In a prepared report, Wallace noted oysters live and grow in water temperatures up to 95 degrees and there is evidence they can take higher temperature.

Oyster growth stops, however, he said, when the temperature drops below 45 degrees. "Theoretically, if water temperatures could be maintained between 50 and 90 degrees at all seasons, growth could be expected on a year-round basis and the time required for this shellfish to grow to maturity shortened greatly," he said.

Properly used, he said, thermal pollution also could be used to help develop clams and bay scallops.

"I visualize within the next 10 years a completely self-contained oyster factory, with spawning year round and the oysters grown entirely under controlled conditions," he said.

Synod elects president

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The Rev. Wilson E. Touhsaent of Wyomissing, Pa., was elected president of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod at its first annual session Wednesday.

The Rev. Mr. Touhsaent was elected on the fourth ballot after the delegates had narrowed the field from 73 nominees.

The synod, with 116,000 members in 349 congregations in 14 northeastern Pennsylvania counties, was formed last Dec. 31 when the old Eastern Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod split. The other part of that synod became the Southeastern Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod.

One of those nominated for the post of president Tuesday was the Rev. Dr. Samuel E. Kidd, president of the old, combined synod.

There were 487 delegates, both laymen and clergy, at the session.

Want Israelis to pull back

Egypt moves toward settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — An Egyptian memorandum to U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring asks him to find out from Israel whether it will withdraw from all the Arab territories it occupied last year.

The memorandum also asks him to find out whether Israel "is ready to implement" the Security Council's resolution of last Nov. 22, which affirmed principles and requirements for settlement of the Arab-Israeli war of June 5-10, 1967.

The contents of the memorandum became known Wednesday.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad handed it to Jarring Saturday and Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban took it back with him Tuesday night on a week's trip to Jerusalem to report to the Cabinet.

He is expected to give Israel's reaction to Egypt's questions when he returns to New York and resumes talks with Jarring next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Israeli sources indicated that Israel is unlikely to declare now either that it will withdraw from all the occupied territories or that it is ready to implement the resolution, the basis for Jarring's peace mission as U.N. special representative to the Middle East.

They said the resolution called for implementation not by the parties but only by Secretary-General U. Thant.

The resolution "requests" Thant to name a special representative to promote a settlement "in accordance with the principles and provisions" in it.

But it only "affirms" those principles and provisions. In so doing, it sets out that lasting peace should include Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories and Arab acknowledgment of Israeli sovereignty within "secure and recognized boundaries."

The Israeli sources said Israel could not declare itself on withdrawal until it knew where the boundaries should be, and it would not know that until it learned whether the Arabs foresaw an armed frontier or an open frontier.

Riad's memorandum was his reaction to one Eban had given Jarring Oct. 16 setting forth Israel's nine-point formula for peace.

But it ignored the nine points and stressed that Jarring's contacts with Israel "reveal that it still refuses to declare its acceptance of and its readiness to implement the Security Council resolution and thus it still refuses to fulfill its obligations arising from that resolution."

Suit charges police sway at polls

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Democrats accused Chester policemen Tuesday of intimidating and threatening voters around polling places.

Frank Brooks, the city's Democratic chairman, and other party leaders, filed suit in U. S. District Court seeking an order to forbid Mayor John H. Naciri of Chester and others from ordering such actions around the polls Nov. 5.

Named in the suit were several city officials, plus four police captains and 25 policemen and detectives. The police were described as Republican committeemen or workers.

The plaintiffs charged policemen are required by their party to get the largest Republican vote possible in their precincts. In so doing, the suit charged, the policemen talk to voters and urge them to vote Republican, prominently display their party badges, ride in registered Democratic entering polling places and drive voters to the polling place and urge them to vote Republican.

Philadelphia vote vital: Schweiker

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Rep. Richard S. Schweiker said Wednesday if the Philadelphia Democratic margin is held to 150,000 Nov. 5 he can win the U. S. Senate seat he seeks.

Schweiker, the Republican trying to unseat Sen. Joseph S. Clark, was joined by former Gov. William W. Scranton as he campaigned here Wednesday.

Schweiker said he and Clark are "quite close" in the campaign.

He said he expects to win traditionally Democratic Allegheny County, and if the Democratic margin is held down elsewhere then "I think we'll be successful in the state."

Scranton joined Schweiker for a flight to Williamsport for more campaigning.

State cuts hurting school transportation

HARRISBURG (AP) — A state Bureau of School Audits clampdown on school bus subsidy claims is resulting in decreased payments for a "noticeable number" of districts, a state school officials reported Wednesday.

"The number (of districts) is increasing but we can't really say how many because we don't keep count," said Jesse J. Rittenour, chief of the Department of Public Instruction's transportation division.

Under law, the state pays a share of the cost of transporting elementary school pupils who live more than one and a half miles from a school and secondary school pupils who live more than two miles away.

John Bray, chief of the Auditor General's Bureau of School Audits, acknowledged that "about a year and a half ago" his office began spot checking the subsidy claims of school districts.

"We had never done it before because of manpower reasons — we just didn't have the staff," Bray said.

In a number of cases, Bray said, schools were claiming subsidies for pupils who lived within the limit. For proof in a number of cases, Bray said, field auditors "actually followed buses" for spot checks.

In some cases, said Bray's assistant director, Harold Gibble, the districts said they were hauling nearby pupils because of hazardous conditions for pedestrians on roads leading to the schools.

"We're not against hauling of children who live close to schools," said Gibble. "But it's mandated in the school code that we can't reimburse them for hauling these students."

Hugh Flaherty, Gov. Shafer's secretary for legislation and public affairs, said the solution to some school districts' problems is tied up in a bill that almost certainly will die with the end of the current session of the General Assembly.

The roadblock to the Hazardous Transport Legislation bill is the estimated $7 million price tag that goes with it, said Flaherty.

"But it is a part of the state Republican platform and we hope to have it through by the time this administration leaves office," he said.

South Sterling's cider mill

Peet 'presses' Fall's delight

By PEGGY BANCROFT
Record Correspondent
SOUTH STERLING — What is golden-amber, tangy to the taste, delicious with doughnuts or gingersnaps and comes in Autumn?

Apple cider.

In the Poconos, it's apple cider-making time—one of the many "bonus" delights of a beautiful season of the year.

When Stanley Peet's cider mill arrived back in 1920 from Kalamazoo, Michigan, it was believed to be the only one of its kind in the country. And, now that he has added some touches to increase its efficiency, it is still unique as it approaches its 50th anniversary.

The original mill, which is incorporated in the one operating today, was hand-powered. The grinder looked much like an old-fashioned coffee grinder, and it held two gallons—or about 15 apples at a time.

Now, when you're faced with making a thousand gallons of cider in one season, it's like bailing a rowboat with a thimble to drop in 15 apples at a time. So Stanley decided to make a big wooden grinder. This is fastened with heel-nails—they're square and sharp and short and really do the trick. He added a gasoline-powered engine, and soon the grinder was grinding out fifty bushels of apples an hour.

The press, with its huge screws, was still only able to press out five bushels of apples at a time, so he rigged it up and rebuilt it so that he could press twenty bushels of fruit at one pressing.

How it's made

Cider making is a process where the apples are brought in to the mill, placed in a big trough, and ground. Then the ground apples are shoveled into a four-inch frame in the press on which canvas has been placed. When this four-inch-high canvas-covered frame has been filled, a second is added and filled in the same manner. The press holds up to eight or nine frames.

The huge screws are then hand-run down on the crosspiece which fits in a slot atop a cover over the filled frames. After the big squeeze from which the cider is filtered and hosed out to fill the jars or jugs or waiting barrels, the "cheese"—or pressed-out apples—is discarded outside the mill in a receptacle.

The interior of the cider mill at South Sterling, on Route 191, is a neat arrangement of troughs, frames and tools. At one end, looking much like a rack of dyer's habits, the canvases, dyed a deep, russet brown from their cider-pressing duties, hang in a row. These are toted off to the laundromat once a week to be completely washed and freshened, but their color remains the same because the dye from the apples is so permanently fixed.

Progressive move

The cider mill has been moved six times. Each time it was placed in its new location, it was improved and added to, and now it has a new electric motor replacing the gasoline-powered engine.

The mill is in full operation for two months of each year, October and November. Action always stops the day before Thanksgiving. If November days are cool (and in the Poconos, they're often downright cold), the mill is heated enough to "take off the chill."

In its early years, the mill was in use from dawn until dark. In 1924, Mr. Peet recalls, he made a thousand barrels—50,000 gallons—of cider from September 27 to November 26. That same year also set a record for the number of barrels—35—made in one day. On that backbreaking job, Mr. Peet's father, Charles Schelbert and Ben Ehrgood joined him in the mass-production of the tangy red liquid.

This year is a poor year for apples in this locality, and the demand is greater than ever for cider. Consequently, the jugs of apple cider disappear almost as soon as they are filled.

People bring their own apples to the mill to be ground and pressed and transformed into Autumn ambrosia.

What they see is a tribute to the ingenuity of Stanley R. Peet and Son—for the machinery has been improved, added to, juggled around, made do and dreamed up until it is a model of efficiency.

Homecoming services draw 200 in Gilbert

GILBERT — More than 200 members and former members of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church in Gilbert were addressed by Dr. Floyd Shafer, pastor emeritus, during Homecoming services recently.

The Rev. Wilmer Mantz, pastor of Pleasant Valley Charge, United Church of Christ, welcomed former members from all parts of Pennsylvania and nearby states and introduced Dr. Shafer who served the Tatamy-Forks Charge for 57 years.

Shafer reminisced of his earlier stay in the Brodheadsville-Gilbert area while he was a student of the Seminary and served the churches here during the summer months with former associations with the late Dr. Frank Smith of the P. V. Charge and founder of the Polytechnic Institute of Gilbert.

Five members of the 1913 confirmation class of the church attended the annual homecoming services enjoying the rendition of two solos by Miss Ann Louise Strohl, a member of Trachsville U.C.C.

Schweiker for Senate

One of the most important contests on the ballot for Tuesday, Nov. 5, is that in which Rep. Richard S. Schweiker is trying to unseat Sen. Joseph S. Clark as one of Pennsylvania's two senators in the United States Congress.

Not only is this race drawing a great amount of interest within the confines of Pennsylvania, but the result will have a direct bearing on many national and international policies of the future.

We recommend the election of Schweiker, a Republican from Montgomery County, in what undoubtedly will be one of the closest and most keenly followed events on the election day schedule.

Schweiker has had four terms in the House of Representatives in Washington to prepare for the office of senator. He was first elected to congress in 1960 and since that time has served on the House Armed Services Committee, House Government Operations Committee, led a drive to eliminate inequities in the draft system and was one of the leaders in strengthen the United Nations' peace keeping ability.

Schweiker, a graduate of Penn State University, is 42 years old, as compared to Clark, a Harvard University graduate, who is now 68. Schweiker has shown determination and thoughtfulness in the pursuit of his congressional duties.

We approve of his outlook on gun control, for the most part, and his desire to win an honorable peace in Vietnam. He has made some ill advised remarks on Tocks Island and the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, but for the most part appears to be a man of his word and a man of his convictions.

Clark's age must be taken into consideration, despite the fact that the Philadelphia Democrat has upheld his duties for most of Pennsylvania during two terms in the Senate. However, his outlook on Vietnam is alarming. His views on lawlessness and poverty closely parallel Schweiker's and his gun control measures have been greatly misunderstood and blown out of proportion.

However, we recommend Schweiker for election on the platform that he is a highly qualified individual, 26 years younger than his opponent and because he enjoys that rare quality of apparently getting truly close to the people.

Life of dedication

The recent death of Ida Kunkle was a tremendous loss to Monroe County and the thousands of people she had befriended over the years.

Mrs. Kunkle served as a Red Cross volunteer for many years, spanning World War I and World War II and the flood of 1955 that washed over the Pocono Mountains.

The manner in which she enlisted volunteers during the disastrous 1955 flood will long be remembered. She appeared to be everywhere at once, lending a helping hand, lifting the injured from the mud, finding homes for the homeless, food for the hungry and clothes for those who lost everything as their life's belongings washed away in the wake of the mounting tide.

Mrs. Kunkle was liked by everyone with whom she worked and by those she called on for aid or those that were asked to give the Red Cross assistance in one form or another.

The present Monroe County blood donor system actually became a reality for the most part because of Mrs. Kunkle's untiring efforts in this direction. It now stands as a monument in her behalf.

There are few people in this world who give of their entire life as a service to others, as did Mrs. Kunkle.

There are also very few who have accomplished so much or left so many pleasant memories as did Mrs. Ida Kunkle, one of the most dedicated members in the history of any Red Cross chapter.

Second Oldest Profession

A clergyman told me something the other day to prove that journalism must be the second oldest profession.

He said that it was perfectly obvious that a photo journalist was present at the Last Supper because in any representation he had seen you could just hear the comment "All you fellows who want to be in the picture get on the other side of the table."

"My advice to young men deciding on a career," writes James H. Russell, who published the Journal down at Belton, Tex., "is to avoid the businesses and professions and go into poverty. That's where the big money is."

A reader confides that the only serious flaw which has developed in his new car is his inability to keep up the payments.

Polite gathering

NEW YORK — The two main candidates—Richard Nixon and Humphrey—were traditionally polite in front of Archbishop Terence Cooke at the recent annual Alfred E. Smith Dinner in New York.

The late Francis Cardinal Spellman inaugurated the custom of bringing the leading candidates for high office together at this charity affair that preserves the memory of the rough-hewn Tammanyite who was defeated for the presidency by Herbert Hoover. Many a whip and quip has emanated from the head table since then. The quips outnumber the whips.

At the dinner the other night President Johnson said, bringing up a question that the Democrats had not as of then raised in their indecisive war against Dick Nixon, "This could be my last press conference. Pretty soon you won't have Lyndon Johnson to kick around any more."

It was, of course, a sly replay on Nixon's announcement the morning in 1962 after he lost his ill-advised race against Pat Brown for Governor of California. Troubled, distressed, he said to assembled newsmen:

"You won't have Nixon to kick around any more, because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference."

Broke up crowd

In 1960 the Cardinal seemed to some in the audience at the Waldorf Astoria to lean a bit, politically, toward Nixon, Nixon's opponent, John F. Kennedy, sat on the other side of the Cardinal at dinner. When called upon, JFK went to some pains to congratulate the Cardinal, whom he did not particularly like, and vice versa, for arranging such a fine dinner. He said, in effect, "only his Eminence could bring together two men who are fighting so savagely to be president of the United States: Richard Nixon (and here he gave it an eloquent Jack Benny pause) and Nelson Rockefeller!"

Broke up everybody in the house, with the possible exception of the mentioned gentlemen.

To repeat, these are and were most polite exchanges. So far, this is true of this presidential race. Four years ago, the assault on Barry Goldwater was quite severe, though there was relatively little chance that he could win. He was accused, on the basis of a misunderstood interview with an Associated Press reporter, of being in favor of dropping atomic bombs on North Vietnamese intruder routes into South Viet Nam.

He was merely commenting on various ways suggested of defoliating the dense forests under which the supplies moved. This, of course, has been done by chemical means ever since, under the man who defeated Goldwater.

The issues of crime in the streets was also raised by Goldwater. It seemed like a ridiculous proposal at the time, but the years have changed the nation's perspective. And the years have created a third party whose chief appeal is an ephemeral pledge to bat down such crime.

Good old days

On the whole this has been a milquetoast campaign when compared to the arsenal of American invective, political and otherwise. Pardon me, while I dip my bill into the replenishing delight of "The American Treasury," edited by Harper by Clifton Fadiman and Charles Van Doren.

"John Nance Garner is a labor-baiting, poker-playing, whiskey-drinking, evil old man," opined John L. Lewis in 1939. "He is a man of splendid abilities, but utterly corrupt," John Randolph said of Edward Livingston. "He shines and stinks like rotten mackerel by moonlight."

Theodore Roosevelt denounced Tom Paine, who had died some years before, as "that dirty little atheist." And Rom Reed said to the denouncer, "Theodore, if there is one thing more than another for which I admire you, it is your original discovery of the 10 commandments."

Harold Ickes called Wendell Willkie, "The Barefoot Boy from Wall Street." Alice Longworth likened Tom Dewey to "the little man on the wedding cake." It helped demolish the candidate, who might have been an excellent president.

Kingmaker Mark Hanna, riding on the train bearing assassinated President McKinley from Buffalo to Washington, fumed "I told William McKinley it was a mistake to nominate that wild man at Philadelphia. Now look, that damned cowboy (Teddy Roosevelt) is president of the United States."

A month before FDR died, William Allen White wrote in the Emporia (Kans.) Gazette, "Well, damn your smiling old picture, here it is! Here, reluctantly, amid sobbing and snorting, it is. We, who hate your gaudy gals, salute you."

Lincoln received a letter on Nov. 25, 1860, just after his election, from a man named Pete Muggins who lived in Fillmore, Louisiana. It read:

"God damn your God damned old hellfired God damned soul to hell God damn you and goddam your God damned family's God damned hellfired God damned soul to hell and God damnation God damn them and God damn your God damn friends to hell."

Might have hurt the feelings of a thinner-skinned man.

Harris survey

Signs of 'softness' appear in Nixon's voting pattern

By LOUIS HARRIS

After having been written off by many observers as a dull but almost certain big win for Richard Nixon, the 1968 campaign for president is beginning to take on dimensions of a more interesting contest in the final weeks.

Nixon is still ahead by five points nationwide in the most recent Harris Survey, taken with over three weeks to go, leading in every region except the south. But there are now some signs of firming up for Humphrey which were almost absent in September.

Here are some possible indicators concerning the Nixon candidacy:

—The number of voters who feel Nixon is "the best man the Republicans could have nominated" has now shrunk to 43 per cent, compared with 46 per cent a month ago. More important, among Nixon voters, a seven-point slippage has taken place in a month on this key dimension.

In an ordinary campaign, voters almost always rationalize themselves into buttressing their choice and thinking better of him as Election Day approaches. With Nixon, the reverse seems to be happening.

—Back in September, Nixon was believed to be more a "man of integrity" by seven points over Humphrey. Now, in the latest survey, this has reversed and Humphrey edges Nixon by three points.

—The number of voters who feel Nixon is "all things to all men" has risen six points in a month from 46 to 52 per cent of the electorate. Comparably the number who feel he is "too wishy-washy" has gone up seven points from 26 to 33 per cent.

Fundamentally, what has happened to some extent is that the American people have taken a hard look at "President Nixon" and have had some second thoughts.

Humphrey, by contrast, has begun to show some spark of political life after a desultory showing in August and September.

—By 50 to 38 percent, the efforts on the part of anti-Vietnam protesters to interrupt Humphrey campaign appearances have evoked a sympathy among voters.

—The number who were prepared to disqualify Humphrey because "he was too close to President Johnson and his policies" has declined.

—Perhaps more than any other element, the Humphrey campaign has begun to demonstrate some solid underpinnings which have little to do with the candidate's personality or style.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks for dedication success

Editor, The Record:

May I again use your media to express my thanks to everyone who participated in making the dedication of the East Stroudsburg Post Office a tremendous success.

To the Pocono Record for the repeated publicity, Radio Station WYPO and Sally Ferree and her program for the big promotion, to Jesse Flory, general chairman; Paul Morton, publicity chairman, and the fine citizens committee who labored so graciously.

The East Stroudsburg High School Band and its director John Casagrande for their inspiring music, the advertisers who made the dedication booklet and the luncheon possible. I could fill this page with names that have endeared themselves to me and my fellow postal workers.

In spite of the rain which caused the festivities to be moved indoors, approximately 300 were in attendance, and Congressman Rooney's words summed it up — "In my five and one-half years in such postal contacts in my district, I have never seen such a tremendous turnout for a dedication as today which to me signifies the pride and interest you have in your borough."

STEWART E. MARSH
East Stroudsburg Postmaster

Let George do it

Editor, The Record:

The main issue in the presidential campaign is who is going to stop aid and trade with the Communist countries helping the Viet Cong slaughter our American fighting men.

The "War" in Vietnam will continue until the supplies made possible by the suicidal policies of those who aid our enemies are shut off.

Humphrey can't — Nixon probably won't because he stood silent as the blood flowed in Hungary and Cuba — and that leaves George C. Wallace who has said he will stop aid to the Communists.

Let's stand up for America and let George do it.

MRS. LARRY B. BLACK

Questions talk of respect

Editor, The Record:

It is fruitless for Judge Arlington Williams to speak of respect for lawful institutions while his government, our government, the United States of America, engages itself in an insane, illegal, and unjust war in Southeast Asia.

It is even more absurd for Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey, and least of all, George Wallace, to speak of law and order while supporting a grossly immoral and savagely stupid war against the Vietnamese people, the vast majority of whom want the war stopped altogether.

GLENN FISHER

Die in old tradition

Editor, The Record:

Like me, you are probably on every sucker list for political contributions from here to Honolulu. Like me, you have had it as far as politics is concerned.

No doubt you have a "so what" attitude with regard to the campaign now going on. Certainly Nixon is not an ideal Republican. But things can still get worse — though it does not seem possible.

While making notes I asked him about his other idea.

"Oh, that concerns the election. Personally, I'm not for Gov. George Wallace. However, I think the best thing that could happen to this country would be for him to get elected president. Here's my reasoning:

"The next Congress is either going to be controlled altogether by the Democrats or have a Democrat-controlled Senate and a Republican-controlled House. Hubert Humphrey or Nixon could work with Congress regardless of how the congressional races go. While some bills might be rejected, much legislation would be passed.

"But Wallace wouldn't be able to get anything through Congress. And, in turn, Congress would constantly find its bills vetoed by the president. Perhaps no new laws would be passed for four years! And that, my friend, would be the salvation of America."

My ten-year-old daughter is a chronic gum chewer. What is even worse is that she deliberately swallows the gum and frightens us because of the possibility it may cause trouble in her stomach or intestines. It there any real danger to this?

Dear Mrs. L.: A poet who probably is anonymous and will never compete with Keats or Shelley, once wrote this immortal poem:

A gum-chewing girl and a cud-chewing cow. There must be a difference I'll have to allow.

There is an intelligent expression on the face of the cow.

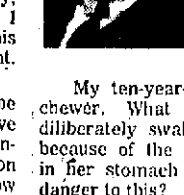

When Barry Goldwater's little band of defenders fell at their political Alamo four years ago, The Old Guard died gloriously but vainly.

They always called us Old Guard Republicans "a bunch of die-hards." So let's all die out in the old tradition: If you can't go to the polls on election day, make them carry you!

DONALD MOYLE
Corona, N.Y.

Lester Coleman, M. D.

Doctor, I'd like to know...

My ten-year-old daughter is a chronic gum chewer. What is even worse is that she deliberately swallows the gum and frightens us because of the possibility it may cause trouble in her stomach or intestines. It there any real danger to this?

Dear Mrs. L.: A poet who probably is anonymous and will never compete with Keats or Shelley, once wrote this immortal poem:

A gum-chewing girl and a cud-chewing cow. There must be a difference I'll have to allow.

There is an intelligent expression on the face of the cow.

He probably expressed this for the many mothers who dislike chronic gum chewing. Dentists, of course, feel that gum can be injurious to the teeth. Whether or not this has any scientific validity is a controversy I dare not enter into.

The old wives' tale that gum can make the intestines stick together has no basis in fact and should not be a source of concern to you. The danger from swallowing gum is negligible but can hardly be recommended as part of a nutritious diet.

There may be some underlying rebellious psychological reason why your daughter insists on swallowing gum.

Jean O. Turn, an East Stroudsburg High School student, was among those high scorers recently who received Letters of Commendation for their standing on the 1968 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

14 state colleges presented funds

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency announced Friday the payment of $866,448 in matching funds to 14 state-owned institutions of higher education for the 1968-1969 academic year.

These state monies enable the institutions of higher education to obtain available federal funds to provide financial assistance to needy and able students under the Educational Opportunity Grant (EOG), College Work-Study (CWS), and National Defense Student Loan (NDSL) programs. In August, PHEAA had announced that nearly $950,000 had been allocated by the General Assembly for matching funds.

Kenneth R. Reeher, executive director of the Agency, said, "State monies used in the Educational Opportunity Grant program enable the college to secure three times the state advance in federal money which is used for grants to the low income student."

The state allocation for the College Work-Study program provides 20 per cent of the student payroll and the federal government supplies the remaining 80 per cent. Under the National Defense Student Loan program, a school may obtain ten times the state investment. The availability of the state appropriation allows the maximum use of federal funds for Pennsylvania state-owned institutions.

The state-owned institutions of higher education participating in this joint federal-state program, provided for under the Higher Education Act of 1965, have received the following amounts for each program:

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Reason a N. Y. radio station barred a singer's records: he walked into the station, pulled a gun and demanded (of a woman record-director) why his songs weren't being spun enough; the real mystery is why the station didn't have him arrested forthwith...Joey Deatherton and Randy Kirby (Durward's lady) were at it again at the Graffiti...Hey small spender: hairdoer Michael Kazan had all his fall suits made without pockets...Artist Dong Kingman showed us his new Hong Kong creation: a suit with dozens of pockets...Blank stare of the week: when the cop demanded of the crowd in front of the Delmonico Hotel, "Who's car is this," and Henry Ford's sprig Anne Uzielli just looked...and looked.

The microskirt trend caused college drum majorettes to shorten skirts...Remember when the chemicals in your body were said to be worth 98 cents? Now they're pegged at $34.74...All that ruckus about scenes supposedly snipped from Brigitte Bardot's television special for its showing here, and its producer Count Guy de la Passadiere assured us nothing's being cut; "But nothing," he butted.

Gilbert Beaud is a most attractive French vitamin but he's caught one minor annoyance of the Sinatra-imitators: before he sang a note at his one-man-hit he arrived on stage impeccably dressed—and then opened his shirt collar...If the insistently casual (meaning sloppy) singing lads wish more comfort in their collars, why not have them made a size larger...Perry Como, world's most comfortable gentleman, does...When Perry wants to sing a song in total comfort, he simply wears a sport shirt in the first television place.

Jazzdom now boasts a cat who swings a mean set of bagpipes: Rufus Harley, billed reasonably enough as "The World's Only Jazz Bagpipe Player" (Rufus wails at Count Basie's Harlem hangout)...Shot the news photos missed: Jackie and Caroline draped for a chat on an E. 85th St. stoop (between Park & Lex.) while Secret Service kibitzers watched and waited from the Park Ave. corner for the limo which whisked 'em up and away.

Bossman Bill Black of Chock Full O'Nuts shortly will announce his biggest expansion of all...Comic Pat Cooper has spent years establishing his floor show "thing" as a nutty Italian kid; so his movie break comes in "That Nice Boy"; he'll play a psychiatrist...Steve Jacobs (boss of Wm Morris' television staff) can't collect commissions on his latest production: a new son.

Convertible couch tycoon Bernard Castro suffered an odd double tragedy: his daughter Bernadette (Mrs. David Austin) lost her baby at a N.Y. hospital — the very same evening his son Bernard Jr. and wife Julie also lost theirs in Ocala, Fla...Poor kids.

U.S. Intelligence knows Czechoslovakia's A. Dubcek was beaten viciously by the Russians: may even have photos of his cruelly welched back...

Next invasion of Columbia U. may be by Kennedy Synophants...Marcello Mastroianni admits he speaks poor English but all language barriers were absent as he bugaloosed at Trude Heller's with beautiful Mary Obolensky (she's a princess but dropped the title in her lowly job as a press agent here) and a tall thin sepi beauty whose name escaped everybody.

The Paris Opera's in sad fiscal shape and wants Maria Callas to give it a shot of excitement; its outlook struck director Jean Vilar as something to resign about even before his job started...Trenny Robb, Lynda Bird's swingin' sister-in-law, swung into the College De Beaute on 2nd Ave. and instructed Monti Rock to "do something different to me" so Monti gave her pigtails linked at the ends by sequins.

The N.Y. Times & Chic Trib. snubbed ads for "The Beautiful Couple" because the art work was too explicitly coupled...Andy Warhol and his "Stars" Viva and Pierre Clementi went to see their "Partners" at the Lincoln Center N.Y. Film Festival—and were refused admittance.

Six months ago television comic Dick Cavett was taking buses and subways; he gave us a lift this week from Marc Connelly's cocktail party at the Algonquin in his chauffeured limo...Marc was able only to dredge up four of the old Algonquin Round Table regulars for his new-look bash: Margo Gilmore, Peggy Wood, Mordock Pemberton—and himself.

Arab jobless

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel will open employment offices Wednesday in occupied Jordan at Nablus, Jenin, Hebron, Ramallah, El Bireh and Tulkarm, the Labor Ministry announced, to help Arabs find jobs in Israel.

Out of action

BLANTYRE, Malawi (AP) — The bush fire season is here and Blantyre's only fire engine is out of action permanently after smashing into a tree. The fire brigade is making do with a truck and a land-rover.

Holiday arrangements star at Garden Club luncheon

PARADISE VALLEY — Members of the Monroe County Garden Club got some new ideas for "Holiday Flower Arrangements" and enjoyment from the light touch which Richard H. Mutton used in his demonstration at their Fall luncheon held at Crescent Lodge.

Mutton, a past president of the Blue Valley Garden Club, has also been active in the Lehigh Valley African Violet Society.

He used Korean angels, bronze deer, Wise Men candlesticks, paper mache madonnas, gilded birds, angels made of burlap, red apples, cardinals, and mums, roses, carnations, pineapples, bitter sweet and other material in his unusual arrangements. They were awarded to members.

Mutton was introduced by Mrs. William G. Dievier.

Mrs. Jacob Z. Hartman welcomed members and their guests. Mrs. Thomas H. Wiss III was general chairman of the luncheon with Mrs. Mark L. Bristol and Mrs. Hartman in charge of table arrangements.

Guests included Mrs. Joseph W. Kenworthy, president of the Garden Club Federation of Pennsylvania and Mrs. A. Frederic Schaffer, district director.

Mrs. Kenworthy explained the state project is creating a rose garden for the new Governor's Mansion being built in Harrisburg. The local club hopes to have 100 per cent representation to be included in the Rose Book to be kept in the mansion.

Announcement was made of the flower arrangement workshops being held at the home of Mrs. Wiss, taught by Mrs. Allen Stever. There are still a few vacancies. Those interested are asked to call Mrs. George F. Walker. The club members are invited to a Della Robbia workshop to be held Tuesday, Nov. 5, at 10:30 a.m. at the Owls Home, Emmaus.

They are also invited to the Christmas party Nov. 14 at Strawbridge and Clothier, to the Tannersville Christmas Show on Nov. 13 and the Bethlehem Christmas Show in the new Civic Center on Nov. 16 and 17.

Mrs. Elwood Grant, conservation co-chairman, announced that she had compiled a list of edible native plants, plants used medicinally and for dyeing for a teacher who used it in her classroom and also gave bird feathers for the art classroom as part of Conservation Education Week.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

We'll never get the yard raked if we stop to admire the colors of each leaf. The news presents much the same problem, but here's a few splashy ones:

Ruth Brown, taking off last Thursday to visit her daughter on the West Coast of Florida, was grounded all night in Philadelphia and arrived in Tampa in the midst of the hurricane which got her visit off to a different kind of start.

Henri Baldwin on the East Coast with her mother, getting their home in order for the winter, escaped the hurricane but got plenty of rain. With the house cleaned and the temperature 90 and time to visit, there's nobody there to visit with all the Monroe Countians lingering to enjoy the Poconos' October weather.

Joseph Barnes found a violet while he was playing golf the other day and brought it home for Marjorie.

Anne Rung who loves the Garden Club but doesn't care to make arrangements ("I do not even want to learn," she protests) admitted that Richard Mutton got her really interested. "How many arrangements do you have in your home?" she asked him.

"None," was his unabashed answer. "I just like to clown around with my family." And since he has seven children, that's no wonder.

White collar jobs increase

STROUDSBURG — What changes have taken place in Monroe County's labor force since the last census?

What is the numerical split, at the present time, between white collar and blue collar employment?

Locally, as elsewhere in the United States, mechanization and automation have led to many shifts in job distribution in the period.

The result, in Monroe County, has been a sizable increase in the proportion of white collar workers. The rise, since 1960, is estimated at nearly 16 per cent.

The findings are based upon national figures released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and upon data from the Department of Commerce.

Classified as "white collar" in the government's reports are professional, technical and kindred workers, managers, officials and proprietors, clerical workers and sales people.

In the so-called "blue collar" group are farmers, service workers, factory employees and all others.

At the time of the last census, 1960, there were a total of 5,260 persons in white collar jobs in the local area and 9,770 in blue collar.

The changes that have taken place since then are attributed to technological advances, both in the factory and on the farm.

The Department of Labor finds that the trend, generally, is toward a long term, rapid growth of white collar workers and a modest increase in blue collar employment.

It sees, also, a continuing rise in the skill level, a decline in farm employment and a faster-than-average growth among service workers.

By virtue of the adjustments that have taken place in Monroe County in the last eight years, it is estimated that white collar workers now constitute approximately 40 per cent of the local labor force.

The big differences in earnings, spending potential and standards that once distinguished blue collar workers from white collar are becoming much less pronounced.

The pay scale of the average blue collar worker has been going up at a much faster rate than that of the white collar. As a consequence, he is able to live better than he once did and to enjoy more of the luxuries of life.

Ann Landers

Common sense suggestions

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I had surgery for a malignant tumor. The surgery was followed by cobalt treatments. My physicians are very optimistic and so am I — until some thoughtless person says something. Please publish these suggestions for family and acquaintances of individuals who have had cancer treatment.

1. If the patient wishes to discuss his illness he will bring up the subject. If nothing is said, keep quiet.

2. Avoid such remarks as, "You are lucky. A neighbor of mine had exactly what you have and they had to cut out his tongue and vocal cords."

3. Don't tell about Mr. So-and-So who had suffered with cancer for years but "never lost his sense of humor."

4. Be cheerful. Many people recover from cancer. If you know of someone who did, mention it. Such reports can be very encouraging.

Thanks, Ann.

My father is alcoholic, too, and by her standards I'm sure he is also a lousy bum. My five younger sisters and brothers have been thrown out of the house in the dead of winter, every holiday ruined, holes hammered into locked bedroom doors, telephones ripped out, furniture and dishes broken, snipers thrown on the floor, bicycles pawned, money stolen, neighbors complaining, police at the door. Talk about hell — we lived it. Yet, I hold no bitterness in my heart. My father hates his drinking more than we do, but he is too weak to conquer it. He is a brilliant man and could have had a wonderful career. Instead he has known nothing but misery and defeat.

I am happily married now, and if Mom goes first I'll take Dad in, if he wants to come.

Dear Solitaire: If you want to catch trout, don't fish in a herring barrel. Join study groups, adult education classes, Great Books groups, do volunteer work. Have you considered a new job? Get going. God helps those who help themselves.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A DAUGHTER WHO UNDERSTANDS

Dear A: You sound like an angel to me. There's got to be a special place in heaven for people like you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a widow, 43. The days are O.K., but the evenings are so lonely. I've gone to some nice cocktail lounges but I've met only bums who want someone to sleep with. How does a respectable woman meet decent men?

SOLITAIRE

Dear Baltimore: Here's your letter, and let's hope the guilty ones take the hint.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to reply to the self-appointed authority on rotten fathers. She refused to take in the "lousy bum" — even if he were starving to death — because "he had never done anything in his whole life but cause trouble."

$300 judgment filed in favor of petitioner

EAST STROUDSBURG — Justice of the Peace Thomas J. Flynn, Smithfield Township, Monday filed a judgment in the sum of $300 in favor of Raymond W. Uhl II, 84 Annapolis St., East Stroudsburg.

The judgment was against Barbara Harris, 106 Green St., East Stroudsburg, and was awarded in default after Miss Harris failed to appear before Flynn after being issued a summons.

In testimony before Flynn, Uhl stated that he signed an apartment lease with Miss Harris and advanced $300 on request of Miss Harris. Miss Harris claimed she would furnish the apartment with wall to wall carpet and install a new frigidaire with the money. Uhl said in his statement that Miss Harris has failed to fulfill her promise and that she converted the money to her own use and that she further refuses to return the money after promising on several occasions that it would be returned.

PMI to underwrite IBW research center

EAST STROUDSBURG — An agreement to finance a $440,000 research and development center currently under construction for International Boiler Works, Inc. in East Stroudsburg was filed recently in Monroe County Courthouse.

The agreement was made between IBW and Pocono Mountains Industries, the industrial arm of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, requiring PMI to apply for a $198,000 loan to Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority.

Application has been made by PMI and PIDA has approved the loan which is repayable over a 15-year period at two per cent interest.

A second loan for $220,000 will be negotiated for by PMI from the East Stroudsburg National Bank. This will be repayable in 12 years at 7.5 per cent interest, according to the document.

PMI will finance the balance of $22,000 of the estimated construction costs in the form of a grant.

A first mortgage on the plant's property in East Stroudsburg will serve as IBW's collateral.

PMI will make arrangements for adequate water, power and telephone service for the new facility which is being built on the former IBW baseball field near the existing plant.

Actual construction for the facility started Sept. 9 and is expected to be occupied in March, 1969. Part of the 45 acre IBW complex, it is expected to provide 115 additional jobs in engineering, drafting, produce development and administration, and increase the company payroll to $2.5 million annually.

IBW is a subsidiary of Ovitron Corp.

Neither party expected to gain state seats

HARRISBURG (AP) — Twenty-five State Senate seats — 14 Republican and 11 Democrats — will be decided in the Nov. 5 election, and their political makeup is not expected to undergo much change.

Only four of the 25 seats are being tightly contested, and there's a good chance that all of them will remain in the hands of the party currently in command.

Republican sources said they hoped to pick up three Democratic seats — the 11th District in Berks County, the 21st consisting of Butler and Lawrence counties, and the 49th in Erie County.

Democratic informants said they were trying to upset Republicans in the 35th District of Cambria and Westmoreland Counties.

Republicans currently hold a 28-22 edge in the Senate. Normally, Senators from odd numbered districts are elected to four-year terms in presidential election years. Those from even numbered districts usually are elected to four-year terms in gubernatorial election years. However, due to redistricting in 1966, the full membership was required to stand for reelection. Therefore, Senators from odd-numbered districts will run this year for reelection after serving only a two-year term.

Here are the Senate races where a change could most likely occur:

The 11th District Berks County — Gus Yatron, a Democrat, is running for Congress instead of seeking reelection. Robert R. Gerhart, Jr., of Reading, is his party's choice for the seat. Gerhart, strongly identified with labor, is in the public relations business and operates a weekly labor newspaper.

The GOP is banking on O. James Davis, a high school teacher and lobbyist for the Pennsylvania State Education Association. Although Davis is campaigning hard, Democrats have the registration edge — 59,452 to 31,399.

The 21st, Butler and Lawrence Counties — Republicans have chosen Robert L. Gardner, a high school teacher from New Castle, to go against incumbent Donald O. Oesterling, of Butler. Oesterling narrowly won in 1966, with 51.3 per cent of the vote, but remains popular in his home county. Registration is 53,739 to 41,387 in favor of the GOP, but ticket splitting could offset the advantage.

The 35th, Cambria and Westmoreland counties — A seat the Democrats hope to take from the GOP. Republican Richard J. Green, Jr., of Johnstown holds the seat, but W. Louis Coppersmith, of the same city, has a registration advantage of 57,448 to 43,350. Coppersmith is a former assistant district attorney of Cambria County.

The 49th, Erie County — Democratic incumbent William G. Sesler, of Erie received a healthy 58.8 per cent of the vote two years ago. Republicans have put up Daniel T. Wolchik, of Girard, a tavern owner. A onetime Republican county, Democrats now hold a 56,713 to 49,522 registration edge.

Barrett Halloween parade route given

CANADENSIS — Barrett Township's Halloween Parade chairman, Henry Schaller, requests all participants to follow these directions in order to alleviate both pedestrian and auto traffic congestion at the Barrett School on Parade day, Sunday, October 27.

Both pedestrian and vehicular traffic, including floats, are to use the school's exit driveway (next to Dr. Weiss office) for the entrance driveway. The parade will assemble in the rear of the school and commence its line of march from the school's regular entrance drive.

"As no cars which are not participating in the parade will be permitted on school grounds, parents are asked to discharge their children at this driveway, but to keep it clear for use as an entrance."

Guides will be stationed at the entrance to direct the various age groups and other participants, including floats, to their assembling stations in the rear of the school.

Mrs. Russell Speicher is in charge of children 5 years and under and Mrs. John Styk is leading the 6 to 13 year old age group.

Participants are asked to assemble at the school at 1 p.m. in order to be placed in the line of march. Parade Marshal, Julius Schmitt announced the parade will commence promptly at 2 p.m. and march along Route 390 to the Barrett Branch YMCA, where music will be provided by the Federal Reserves.

Highlighting this year's parade are a number of new floats, including one being entered by the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters. Miss Nancy Post, Homecoming Queen of Pocono Mountain High School, and her court, Misses Vicki Jorgensen and Joanne Storer will also ride in the parade.

Rain date has been set for November 3. If the parade is to be postponed due to inclement weather, it will be announced over WYPO and signs will be posted at the Barrett School Sunday morning.

Steps taken

Barrett Republicans may unite

BUCK HILL — Barrett Township Republicans, stuck in "a house divided" since last December when friction in the Barrett Republican Club led to a formation of the Republican Club of Barrett, might be able to whistle "Home Sweet Home" again.

During Monday's meeting of the Barrett Republican Club, Dr. Herbert A. Lorenz of Buck Hill hoped that "unity and spirit would mend the breach that exists between the two Republican Clubs in Barrett and bring them together for a single purpose."

Mrs. Raymond Price urged the two clubs to get together and vote for the best man.

Henry Shaller suggested that a committee from each club meet and come up with findings and solutions to the breach.

Club members approved a three-member committee to represent the Barrett Republican Club. They are Ralph Thomas, chairman; Mrs. Raymond Price and Mrs. John Styk.

George Sopko, president of the Republican Club of Barrett, agreed with the need for committees from both clubs to heal the breach and said that there was a strong possibility that three members would be selected to form a committee during the Republican Club of Barrett's Saturday meeting at Onawa Lodge.

According to Sopko there are 175 members in the Republican Club of Barrett and not more than 20 members in the Barrett Republican Club.

At Monday's meeting of the Barrett Republican Club, J. Russell Eschback running for reelection as Pennsylvania's 138th District Assemblyman, explored the history of the Republican party and urged members to give their wholehearted support to Richard Nixon.

Stroudsburg attorney, Jerome P. Cheslock speaking for Paul Henderson, candidate for the 138th Assembly District, urged members to support Henderson and the entire Republican ticket.

Colleagues hold memorial for Atty. Leo A. Achtermann

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Court and Bar Assn. Wednesday held memorial services for Attorney Leo A. Achtermann during a special session of court.

After the memorial, court adjourned and President Judge Arlington W. Williams and members of the bar attended funeral services for Atty. Achtermann.

During his eulogy, Judge Williams said court was convened "under the shadow of a great burden."

Williams said he mourned the loss of Atty. Achtermann, who with Atty. Harold Edwards, was the oldest member of the county bar association.

Achtermann, who died Saturday night at the age of 73, was admitted to practice in the county in 1920.

Williams praised Atty. Achtermann's "intimate associations with community life."

The bar association entered for the record a resolution praising the late attorney's life and work. The resolution will be made a part of the court's permanent records and a copy will be delivered to Atty. Achtermann's widow, Mrs. Hazel Schaffer Achtermann.

Individual remarks were given by George T. Robinson, president of the association; Russell Mervine, who along with J. Joseph McCluskey and Harold C. Edwards, drew up the resolution, and John J. Pentz, Achtermann's law partner.

Pentz pointed out the pleasure which Atty. Achtermann took in politics.

"He was a politician in the best sense of the word. He served in the House of Representatives at considerable financial sacrifice to himself and he did it for his community," Pentz said.

Dr. Newman made tests on the drug for a six month period in preparation for his paper.

While campaigning locally, Schweiker vote recorded

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, Republican candidate for U.S. Senator, citing irregularities in the recording of his votes in Congress today asked the House Ethics Committee for a full investigation.

Schweiker claims that last month, on two separate occasions, he was recorded present and voting, despite the fact that he was campaigning in Pennsylvania.

Schweiker said "On Sept. 16 I was incorrectly recorded present and voting on one of the seven roll call votes that Pentz said that Atty. Achtermann enjoyed politics so much, that, at times it seemed almost a "vocation."

Funeral services were held in the Lanterman Funeral Home with Rev. William C. Leopold officiating.

Burial was in Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers were

Judge Williams, Mervine, Edwards, Floyd W. Shafer, John J. Martucci, Walter Heckman, Joseph Altomese, James McConnell, Harry Hoffman and Guy Talmadge.

Planners urged to act

STROUDSBURG — The need for an immediate traffic flow design in addition to an adequate signing program was urged by Stroudsburg businessmen Wednesday night as the immediate need for downtown Stroudsburg.

Representatives of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association made the suggestion during an informal meeting with the Borough Planning Commission.

The meeting was the second session with businessmen and planners in order to determine what the downtown business community wanted for an improved business district.

The Planning Commission previously had suggested a re-designed Main Street as the top priority. The street design would include parallel parking and beautification along Main Street.

Philip Quinn, president of the businessmen's association, said however, that people have to find their way downtown first. He said the merchants' biggest problem is direction for a motorist to reach downtown Stroudsburg from Interstate 80.

Ensuing conversation revealed that there is no easy method for any motorist to reach the business district from the Interstate highway.

Quinn also suggested a sign program in conjunction with a traffic pattern.

Holt Wyckoff suggested that the traffic study should begin at the Interstate 80 exit on Bridge Street and that each intersection be thoroughly studied.

The merchants noted from current traffic patterns, that motorists leaving Interstate 80 at Bridge Street are directed more to East Stroudsburg by the traffic flow. They expressed confusion on the part of motorists to make a left turn into Ann Street to reach the business district.

Stroudsburg Planning consultant Michael Cabot said he will draft a traffic survey program in addition to the probable costs involved.

The traffic survey will again be discussed in further detail at the next meeting 8 p.m. November 4 in the Stroudsburg Municipal Building.

Attending Wednesday's meeting, besides Quinn and Wyckoff, were Harry Mullins, H. B. George and Robert Pinder, Planning Commission chairman.

Wallace's county manager reveals threats were made

STROUDSBURG — What George C. Wallace counts as votes in his pocket has happened in East Stroudsburg.

Wallace's campaign manager in Monroe County has been threatened with physical harm and has also received reports that East Stroudsburg State College students plan to wreck campaign headquarters on Halloween night.

The threats and reports of threats came from Donald Hunsicker, Brodheadville funeral director, who is leading the local campaign for the third party candidate.

Hunsicker said he has received phone calls and the callers have threatened him with physical violence if he continues his allegiance with the fiery segregationists.

Hunsicker, who is a member of the Democratic Party's executive committee, also said that he has received a report that ESSC students plan to throw rocks through the windows at campaign headquarters at 111 N. Courtland St.

East Stroudsburg police said Wednesday night that they have not received any information on the threats.

One of Wallace's favorite campaign ploys is to goad hecklers during appearance and then tell them . . . "You just got me one million more votes."

Hunsicker said that since the headquarters opened recently, 550 persons have visited the building. He said the building is opened daily from 12 to 9 p.m. and is staffed by volunteer workers.

Hunsicker said everyone is welcome to visit the headquarters.

DRBC hasn't decided on pumped storage

STROUDSBURG — The Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) next year is expected to decide whether to approve a pumped storage hydro-electric power facility at the Tocks Island Dam.

The DRBC Tuesday adopted a resolution which forbids the use of Sunfish Pond as part of a pumped storage facility proposed by New Jersey Utility Companies.

New Jersey utilities several years ago submitted an application to the DRBC for approval of a pumped storage operation which involved using Sunfish Pond.

Following objections of conservation groups, the DRBC staff two months ago recommended that the Commission forbid the use of the natural glacial lake as part of the electrical project.

The utilities, however, in their original application, had suggested an alternative pumped storage operation which excludes the use of Sunfish Pond. This alternative, revealed last summer, calls for the use of a "middle reservoir" in conjunction with the Yards Creek Upper Reservoir.

Officials from the New Jersey utility firms during the summer seemed to have conceded to demands by conservationists and proceeded with plans to preserve Sunfish Pond.

Tuesday's official action by the DRBC was not meant to block the pumped storage facility, officials revealed, but only to save Sunfish Pond.

As a result, the major question facing the DRBC is still whether it will approve the application by the utility companies for the pumped storage facility.

Numerous legal technicalities are involved in this matter.

The Department of the Interior wants to have the rights to any hydro-electric pumped storage power facility and reap the benefits by selling the power generated from Tocks Island Dam.

The Jersey utilities, who own Sunfish Pond, want to use the power themselves and sell it.

Still another legal technicality is the question whether Congress had intended a pumped storage electric facility at the dam when it authorized Tocks Island.

Indications are that the utility firms want Congress to act on a measure which will specifically authorize the pumped storage.

A spokesman for the DRBC said that the Commission does not have to wait for a Congressional bill in order to approve or disapprove of the application from the utilities.

Tuesday's action by the Commission can be construed to mean that the DRBC finds it desirable to have a multi hydro-electric development at the dam, including pumped storage.

Wind Gap man killed in accident

BETHLEHEM — A 57-year-old Wind Gap man was killed Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in an accident at Bethlehem Steel Co.

Harry S. Clugston of 105 E. Second St. was killed while working on the construction of a new basic oxygen furnace shop at the Bethlehem plant.

A spokesman for the steel company said the dead man was apparently struck on the head by a falling length of pipe and that Clugston apparently received a fracture to his skull.

The steel company spokesman had no additional details.

Joseph Reichel, Northampton County coroner, has called for an autopsy today to determine cause of death.

The body will be released to Kresge Funeral Home, Brodheadville, and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

College picks local chorister

HUNTINGDON — David Learn, Bartonsville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Learn, has been chosen to sing in the Juniata College Concert Choir for 1968-69, according to Bruce A. Hirsch, assistant professor of music and director of the Choir.

The Concert Choir began at Juniata in 1920.

E-burg's inspectors active

EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg Board of Health is inspecting about 40 borough dwelling units a month under the borough's workable program for community improvement, it was revealed Wednesday during the board's regular monthly meeting in the borough building.

About 300 out of an estimated 2,200 dwelling units in East Stroudsburg have already been inspected under the borough's housing code by its two assistant health officers, Harold J. Larison Jr. and Howard Dittus. Larison said that he and Dittus can average about 400-500 inspections a year.

George Forster, president of the borough's Board of Health, said that the borough has to inspect a certain number of homes each year so that it will not lose its eligibility for federal grants from the department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Housing codes for the borough were enacted four years ago as part of the borough's program for urban renewal.

Larison said that a home at 71 Penn Street, East Stroudsburg, will be torn down next week and that a home at 67 Penn Street will also be torn down as soon as an inhabitant of a house at 69 Penn Street moves out.

He reported that the two houses at 290 and 292 N. Courtland Street, damaged recently in a nearby fire, were about to be sold.

ESSC booters dropped by West Chester, 1-0

EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg State College soccer team Wednesday dropped a hard-fought decision to the West Chester Rams, 1-0.

The Warriors not only lost the game, but also lost an opportunity to sew up the conference title. After Wednesday's play, the Warriors record in the state conference stands at 3 wins against one loss.

The traditional grudge match which develops every time the Warriors oppose the Rams in any sport, was scoreless until Ram inside left Joe Elwell slipped a soft shot past goalie Marty Rivard with slightly more than 10 minutes gone in the fourth period.

The winning goal came on a throw-in which was chipped toward the goal. Rivard came out of his net to get the ball, but before he could make contact, Elwell softly tapped the ball past Rivard into the net.

It was the only successful shot that Elwell took all day out of 16 tries, but it proved to be enough for the Rams.

The Warriors offense was plagued with bad breaks throughout the game. Steve Hess hit the cross bar on two different occasions and Jim Hultman made a head shot which could only have been blocked by a fantastic play by Ram goalie Steve Shellhammer. Shellhammer made the play.

The Warriors offense had more than its share of problems with West Chester's tricky defense which centers on Tom Weller, who stands six-feet, two-inches tall.

The Rams defense was devised to help out goalie Shellhammer who had played forward for three years prior to this year.

The Rams defense limited ESSC to very few fast breaks which the Warriors need to win. A tribute to the Ram defense is the fact that the Warriors only took 17 shots, as opposed to the 26 per game which they had been averaging prior to Wednesday.

The Rams, on the other hand, took 30 shots at the goal, but only nine were close enough for Rivard to make saves on.

ESSC next faces Newark College of Engineering at Newark on Saturday. Following that game, on the weekend of Oct. 26 and 27, the Warriors will travel down south to face teams from Duke and North Carolina.

Celtics open home season with win

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Celtics kicked off their home season by raising the 1967-68 playoff championship flag and scoring their third win in as many starts in a 108-101 victory over the Cincinnati Royals.

Bailey Howell and Tom Sanders scored 21 points each as Boston overcame a hot fourth-period comeback pace by veteran center Connie Dierking to remain unbeaten.

Cincinnati played without the services of Oscar Robertson who suffered a leg injury the night before. Robertson became the acting coach in the third quarter when Royals coach Ed Jucker was given two quick technical fouls and ejected by referee Earl Strom.

Six Boston players broke into the double figures as the Celtics drove a 20-point third quarter lead and saw it melt to as low as five in the waning moments as Dierking netted 17 of 25 points in the fourth period.

Hustle can make up for a lot of mistakes a football team makes.

And that was exactly what Andy Silock claims his young Stroudsburg football team did in ending its 14-game losing streak last Friday night against Bangor.

"We made a lot of mistakes but the hustle of the boys made up for them," Silock said after looking over the films.

"Our blocking broke down several times but when you have a runner like Ed Strunk, it doesn't look that bad to the fan sitting in the stand," Silock remarked. "That win has done a whole lot of good for the boys and right now they are higher than a kite."

While Silock seemed to lean towards Strunk as the key to the win, he said, "without the likes of Henry Lee, John Hay, Ron Loysen, Bob Hopkins up front it would have been another long night." Silock also singled out Carl Nobis and Dave Shook for their performance in the secondary.

This Saturday the Mounties travel to Whitehall where they face the most improved team since the start of this year. Dick Brunner took over the head coaching job only two weeks before the start of practice and for the first three games was still trying to get the right combination.

Last weekend the Zephyrs did a job on Lehigh, a team that whipped the Mounties early in the season.

Whitehall has a good one-two punch punch in quarterback Steckel and halfback Kline. Kline is a "fantastic" type runner and last week raced 80 yards and even outran the Indians' Monroe Berger.

Steckel, who likes to roll-out and throw, passed Stroudsburg 'silly' last season as he completed three touchdown passes for more than 50 yards.

Stroudsburg has a habit of rolling over and playing dead when it plays a Saturday afternoon game. But that win over Bangor the other night may change things. At least Silock and the Mountie fans hope so.

Unpredictable team

Millersville, the next stop for the East Stroudsburg State football team, is labeled the "most unpredictable" team on the Warrior schedule by coach Charlie Reese.

"Who would think that Millersville (1-3-1) would beat Bloomsburg," Reese said as he prepared to send the Warriors through a series of running drills. Reese noted that the Marauders have a habit of getting up for one or two games a season.

Questioned further on Millersville, Reese said, "they have some big people and they're a fundamental team. They've been doing the same thing for years and when they have the players they can be rough."

The ESSC offense has not been really sharp the last two games and this has Reese concerned. "I know we are capable of playing better on offense so we stepped up the pace this week and began establishing our game a day ahead of schedule," Reese said.

Players winning honors last week were John Pitzer, offensive back and honorary game captain; Nevin Posey, offensive lineman; Bob Ott and Bob Malhorn, defensive linemen and Charlie Corrado, defensive back. Line backer Gary Schoenberger led in tackles and Malhorn led in tackles and assists.

The Warriors seem to be good and healthy and Reese credits the week of training at Quantico as being the reason.

Investigation hits U.S. track team

Another storm hits Olympics

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A triple investigation into whether some U.S. Olympic track and field stars were given cash by European manufacturers of athletic equipment was reported "at a standstill" Wednesday for lack of evidence.

The investigation, the latest storm to rock an Olympic Games which has had more than its share of upsets and disputes, was triggered when a U.S. track man reported to team officials he found $500 in one of his track shoes.

"I want to turn this in," the athlete—whom sources refused to identify, told the officials. "I have reason to believe that other athletes have been receiving money."

It was learned this incident occurred last week while track and field competition still was going on in the Olympics. The U.S. Olympic Committee immediately launched an investigation and it was learned that the International Olympic Committee (I.O.C.) and the International Amateur Athletic Federation (I.A.A.F.), the ruling body of world track, also began investigating.

An athlete who accepts money for using a particular product, of course, violates his standing as an amateur—and any Olympic medals he won as an amateur would be forfeited if he were found to have taken money before competing.

A source close to the U.S. Olympic Committee insisted the investigation is "not yet" aimed at any specific athletes "by name," but merely was seeking some sort of general evidence that money was passed.

The Olympic village has been full of rumors of payoffs to athletes for days, but until the disclosure of the U.S.O.C. investigation and the finding of the $500 in the shoe, the rumors remained only rumors.

And, the source said, the U.S.O.C. so far has been unable to turn up any evidence "that will stand up" of any wrongdoing beyond the physical fact of the existence of the $500. The source declined to identify the athlete who found the money, and there was no explanation of the circumstances under which it was found—whether at a training field, in a locker, or wherever.

Representatives of European track and field equipment manufacturers have been much in evidence since before the Games started—at which time the village was rocked by a dispute over track shoes.

The Mexican government at first allowed only one brand of European track shoe to be imported for distribution to athletes, but when some U.S. athletes complained they wanted another brand, the Mexican organizing committee sent emissaries to the United States to acquire and bring back whatever shoes were wanted.

The United States track forces won 15 gold medals in the competition which ended Sunday.

Many of the U.S. trackmen who rolled up this score were gone from Mexico when news of the investigation broke. The few who were left professed no knowledge of any payoffs, but one said, "We have heard the same things you have heard."

One source said the investigation was confined to Mexico City at present, although many of the U.S. runners are gone.

He said the status of the investigation was that "the committee has heard things it wants to look into, and now it is looking for evidence."

Two of the U.S. athletes still in Mexico City said they thought the solution to the future of amateurism in track and field was the formation of "professional track."

Atlanta Hawks drub Chicago

ATLANTA (UPI)—Lon Hudson poured in 25 points Wednesday night to pace the Atlanta Hawks to a 106-91 National Basketball Association win over the Chicago Bulls.

Six technical fouls were called in the game, five on Chicago.

Rookie coach Dick Mota and guard Jerry Sloan for the Bulls were thrown out of the game in the third period after each drew their second technical foul of the game.

The win was Atlanta's second straight, after an opening night loss to the Cincinnati Royals. Chicago evened their record at 2-2.

Flynn Washington led the Bulls in scoring with 18 points.

U.S. Olympic swimmers surge to four gold medals

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Mike Burton of Carmichael, Calif., won the gold medal in the men's 400-meter freestyle with Ralph Hutton of Canada taking the silver and Alain Mosconi of France taking the bronze.

Burton's time was 4:00.0, a new Olympic record, but well off Hutton's world record of 4:06.5.

Burton, the world 1,500-meter record holder, beat Hutton, the world 400-meter freestyle champion, by 2.7 seconds. Burton's time bettered Don Schollander's Olympic record of 4:12.2.

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Charles Hickcox of Phoenix, Ariz., clinched the gold medal in the men's 400-meter individual medley with Gary Hall of Garden Grove, Calif., taking the silver in Olympic swimming Wednesday night.

Michael Holthaus of West Germany took the bronze.

Hickcox' time was 4:48.4 far off his own world record of 4:38 and the Olympic record of 4:45.4 by Dick Roth of the U.S. four years ago.

Hickcox led at the first turn and at the end of the butterfly leg in 1:02.4 with Hall second and Holthaus third.

Hall was in the lead at the end of the backstroke leg in 2:15.5 with Hickcox and Holthaus close behind him.

At the end of the breast stroke, Hickcox had regained the lead in 3:44.6, but Hall was only a shade behind him and they made the final turn together. Hickcox barely beat Hall down the last 25 meters.

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Kaye Hall of Tacoma, Wash., won the gold medal in the women's 100-meter backstroke with Elaine Tanner of Canada taking the silver. The time was 1:06.2, a new world record.

Miss Hall set a new world record of 1:06.2. The old world mark was 1:08.4 by Karen Muir of South Africa and Miss Tanner held the old Olympic mark of 1:07.4.

It was a two-girl race after the first 400 meters with Miss Hall just a shade ahead of Miss Tanner at the turn.

At 75 meters Miss Tanner made her final effort to move into first, but gained almost nothing and, in the final five meters, Miss Hall pulled to about a half meter lead.

The girls embraced and congratulated each other in the water before climbing from the pool.

The bronze went to Jane Swaggerty of Stockton, Calif.

Bing leads Pistons over Lakers

DETROIT (UPI)—Dave Bing led a second half scoring surge for the Detroit Pistons Wednesday night as he pumped in 24 points to give Detroit its first National Basketball Association victory this season, a 117-110 triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Bing, who led all scorers with 39 points, blasted the Lakers and Wilt Chamberlain for 10 points in the third quarter as Eddie Mims and Otto Moore clipped in to let Detroit outscore the visitors 23-6 in that round.

Los Angeles bounced back at the end of the third, but Detroit, which has had consistent trouble in the second half in its three straight losses this season, rallied again. Miles accounted for 28 points during the game, one behind Chamberlain who was paying his first visit here in an L.A. uniform.

Pocono Mountain girls win twice

ABINGTON HEIGHTS — The Pocono Mountain varsity girls field hockey team Wednesday defeated Abington Heights High School 3-1, as Millie Brush led the scoring with two goals.

The Pocono Mountain junior varsity girls edged Abington Jayvees 1-0, on a goal by Leslie Toms.

Anderson, Steinkraus win gold

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The United States got an unexpected windfall in the controversy-surrounded Olympics Wednesday when Bill Steinkraus of Noroton, Conn., won the gold medal in Grand Prix individual jumping and Presbyterian minister Gary Anderson of Axtell, Neb., took the gold medal in free rifle shooting.

The two golds were the first for Uncle Sam's athletes outside of track and field and swimming and gave the United States a total of 31 with only four days left in the Games. Steinkraus' victory was the first ever in the Olympics for an American equestrian jumper.

Other gold medals were expected later Wednesday in swimming and diving. The day's program included finals of the women's platform diving, men's 400-meter freestyle and individual medley and women's 200-meter breaststroke and 400-meter individual medley.

Even while the athletes were adding medals to the growing American pile, the Games once again were rocked by sideline events when a source close to the U.S. Olympic Committee confirmed an investigation is underway to find out if any American athletes during these games jeopardized their amateur standing by accepting money from representatives of track equipment manufacturers.

On the more pleasant fields of competition, the 43-year-old Steinkraus, who had failed to win any kind of Olympic medal in four previous attempts, won the Grand Prix show jumping on Snowbound. Marion Coakes of Great Britain took the silver on Stroller and the bronze went to European champion David Broome of Britain on Mister Softee following a barrage of four to determine third place.

In the free rifle shooting, unofficially Anderson won with a world record score of 1,157, breaking his own world and Olympic records of 1,156 and 1,153 respectively.

The 29-year-old Anderson, who is a chaplain in the Army with the rank of Lieutenant, won the gold medal in free rifle shooting for the second straight Olympics. He holds seven world championships, five world records and 10 American championships.

Wichman upped the Olympic record holder, Galina Prozumenshikova of Russia, who finished third.

The Russians were favored in this event after world record holder Cate Ball of Jacksonville, Fla., had to return home because of illness.

But Miss Wichman, who already had won one bronze medal, took the lead in the start, made the first turn a half meter ahead of Galina, yielded the lead at 100 meters to Miss Prozumenshikova, whose time was 1:18.4 and then beat her on the last turn.

Miss Wichman came off the turn less than a half meter ahead and steadily pulled away in the last 50 meters as the capacity crowd of 10,000, always sympathetic to the underdog, cheered her on.

The time was 2:44.4, a new Olympic record, but far off Miss Ball's world record of 2:38.5.

Miss Bjedov, who had won the gold medal in the 100-meter breast stroke, barely edged past Miss Prozumenshikova in the final few meters.

Miss Bjedov, swimming in lane one, was a full body length behind as they made the final turn, but she came off the turn with a burst which put her in contention.

Title clash nears in West

EAST STROUDSBURG — California's Vulcans can virtually tuck the Western Division title in their hip pocket Saturday with a victory over Clarion, as the Pennsylvania State Colleges Athletic Conference moves through another showdown weekend.

The Vulcans unloaded a balanced running and passing attack last Saturday to hurdle Shippensburg, 30-14, one of three contenders in the West.

If Clarion should beat California, however, the winner would automatically be favored to win the West. Clarion (2-0), like California (3-0), has been impressive in each of its league victories.

Al Jack's Clarion eleven forced 13th ranked small college Indiana to score two touchdowns in the fourth period to win last Saturday, 18-13.

Nearing crown
East Stroudsburg, meanwhile, is only two games away from sewing up the Eastern Division championship. The Warriors, who held Mansfield to a minus 12 yards rushing in the first half enroute to a 37-0 victory, take on Millersville Saturday and Bloomsburg, Nov. 9.

Coach Charlie Reese's Warriors, one of only eight unbeaten teams in the state with an overall record of 5-0, again dominated conference statistics along with the East's number two team, West Chester.

Stroud quarterback Billy Dukett, who played for most of three quarters, passed the 1,000-yard mark in total offense and passing. Dukett tallied 119 net yards in the mud field at Mansfield. The home team's Stu Casterline, runnerup in league passing and total yardage, picked up 57 yards.

Big Ed Cencsits nabbed five more passes to raise his league-leading total to 31 ahead of Mansfield's Mike Diveris with 25.

Don Roberts of California held onto his punting lead with a 40.2 average.

West Chester was losing a 28-0 non-league game to Delaware, but the Rams didn't lose any ground in the statistics—in fact, they backed into first place in total offense as California failed to maintain its conference-leading average against Shippensburg.

Bert Nye and Bill "Rocky" Rees still share the scoring lead with 36 points each. Nye, the fullback of the West Chester team, managed to stay out front in rushing with 480 yards despite a 247-yard performance by Kutztown sophomore Phil Anthony in the 44-19 victory over wireless Cheyney.

Nye had the previous single-game rushing highs this season of 183 and 215 yards.

Anthony, a former Great Valley High star in the Ches-Mont League of the western Philadelphia suburbs, will engage Nye on his home grounds for the conference rushing lead Saturday when the two teams meet in West Chester. Anthony is 72 yards behind Nye with 408.

The battle for Western supremacy will bring together two of the finest rollout quarterbacks in the conference — California's Jeff Petrucci who is hitting on 52.4 per cent of his passes, and Clarion's Bob Erdeljac, 55.2 per cent.

Petrucci won the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics total offense championship a year ago. Erdeljac has been among the top five in NCAA small college ranks in recent weeks.

Babe Ruth group wants uniforms

STROUDSBURG — The Optimist Club Babe Ruth Baseball Committee is making a final appeal to the players who have not yet returned their uniforms. The committee has announced that it is necessary that all uniforms be returned no later than this weekend.

Uniforms may be returned to Richard Epley in East Stroudsburg or Bob Hoffman, Stroudsburg. No registration for next years play will be accepted until this seasons suits have been accounted for.

If anyone is unable to return their baseball equipment, it will be picked up upon receipt of a telephone call.

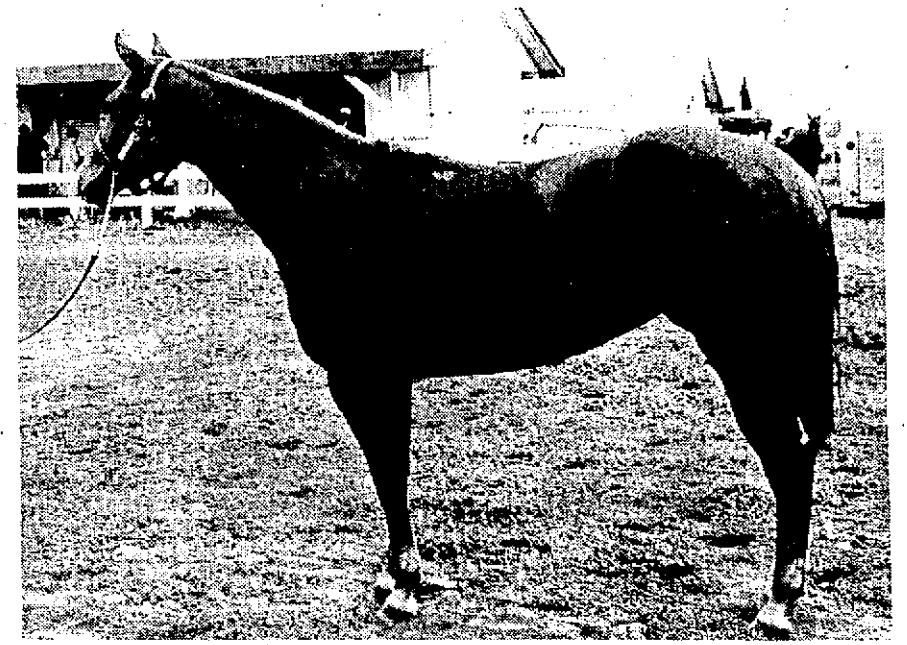

San Diego tops poll again

NEW YORK (UPI)—San Diego State, firmly entrenched as the cream of the small college football crop, is ready now for the big boys.

The unbeaten Aztecs, now 5-0, were named the top small college football team in the country Wednesday by the 35-member United Press International board of coaches, the 23rd consecutive week they have earned the honor. The board cast 22 first place votes and 324 points for the high scoring California crew.

San Diego State takes on San Jose State Saturday, the first of three major college opponents lined up for this year. The Aztecs played one major college last year — Utah State — and that venture ended in failure as the Aggies scored a touchdown in the final minute of a 31-25 victory, snapping San Diego's 25-game winning streak.

The Aztecs are also scheduled to face Southern Mississippi, whose only losses in five games this year have been to Alabama and Mississippi, and Utah State. North Dakota State remained second with 288 points while New Mexico Highlands captured third and Chattanooga fourth. Tampa moved up to fifth, followed by Western Kentucky and Weber State, while Morgan State made its debut in the top 10 in the No. 8 ranking.

Horse show winner

This Grand Champion Mare, owned by Bill Dickerson, Stroudsburg R.D. 2, walked away from the Second State Fair Horse Show, Raleigh, N.C., with top honors. Dickerson had the Champion Quarter Horse plus first and third place premiums. He also won third place in Registered English Pleasure Horse Performance classes.

Wilkes retains Lambert Bowl lead

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wilkes College' 28-19 victory over Ithaca last Saturday enabled the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., team to maintain its lead over three other unbeaten and untied teams in this week's voting for the Lambert Bowl, emblematic of Eastern small college gridiron supremacy.

The eight-member committee of athletic directors, sports writers and sports casters gave Wilkes 75 of a possible 80 points. Kings Point, which has a 5-0 record compared to Wilkes' 4-0 mark, ranked second with 71 points. Lebanon Valley (3-6) was tied with 52 points and Franklin and Marshall (4-0) was fourth with 49.

Notre Dame leader in total offense

NEW YORK (UPI)—Notre Dame's relentless attack in last Saturday's 58-8 victory over Illinois, has vaulted the Irish to No. 1 in total offense and No. 2 in rushing among major college football teams.

The 58-point outburst also made Notre Dame the No. 2 team in scoring — behind unbeaten and untied Kansas.

Figures released today by National Collegiate Sports Services disclose that Notre Dame's 674-yard game against Illinois gave the Irish a total of 2648 yards gained in five games for an average of 529.6 per game. Houston, idle last weekend, ranks second with 517.3 and Indiana is third with 490.8.

Nevada set the all-time record in 1916 with an average of 487 yards gained rushing and passing each game.

Notre Dame's average of 320.8 yards a game rushing ranks second to Princeton's 319.5 with Houston third at 315.5 and Virginia fourth at 314.8.

Kansas has scored 225 points in five games for a 45-point-per-game average, followed by Notre Dame's 40.6 and Houston's 40.5 averages.

Southern Methodist is the passing leader with an average of 321 yards per game with Cincinnati second at 277.9 and Duke third at 269.6.

Short punts from around conference

EAST STROUDSBURG — Bloomsburg frosh threw a scare into Bucknell frosh gridders before bowing, 60-0. East Stroudsburg stopped Lock Haven's six-game winning streak in soccer, 8-0. Craig Hunzinger booted a 37-yard field goal for Lock Haven, longest of the conference football season, in the 56-21 rout of Edinboro. Dan Staats belted his third for East Stroudsburg, a 34-yarder.

Ray Horn was the hero in Millersville's 21-13 conquest of Bloomsburg. A standing-room-only crowd at Bloom watched Horn grind out 101 yards on only 10 carries for two touchdowns. Horn had carried the ball one, one and three times in previous games. Kutztown ate up an incredible 453 yards on the ground vs. Cheyney, and 629 yards overall. Kutztown rushed 77 times.

New National Collegiate Athletic Assn. timeout rule, which stops the clock after every first down, is believed responsible for increasing playing time from two hours, 27 minutes to an average of 2:42 so far this year.

Lock Haven took the team championship in the District 18 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics cross country run with undefeated Dennis Axman leading the way. The victory qualified the Bald Eagles to run the NAIA meet Thanksgiving Day in Omaha, Neb. Lock Haven, which tallied 30 points to 55 for runnerup Indiana U., will compete in the Pennsylvania State College Athletic Conference championship meet Nov. 2 in West Chester.

Lock Haven quarterback Denny Rhule, who threw two touchdown passes against Edinboro, suffered a rib injury in the third period and is a doubtful starter against Delaware Valley this week. After the 56-21 onslaught, Lock Haven coach Hubert Jack commented: "It could have been worse. We fumbled on their one-inch line."

Six fraternities seek reversal of dean

EAST STROUDSBURG — Six fraternities at East Stroudsburg State College have appealed to the college president to reverse a decision made by Dr. Angelo Ortenzi, dean of students at the school, putting Tan Kappa Epsilon on social probation.

Dr. Frank Sils, president, has not ruled on the appeal.

The action stems from actions of three members of TKE fraternity at the ESSC-West Chester State Football game on Sept. 28.

Dr. Ortenzi acted after hearing testimony that four ESSC men who were serving as "mascots" for the cheerleaders were "boisterous and rowdy."

The six fraternities claim the three fraternity members were acting as individuals and not as representatives of the fraternity. Therefore, they charged the action against TKE is "unjustified."

Miss Georgina Moreton, co-captain of the cheerleading squad, agreed. "They (the four men) were under the auspices of the cheerleading squad not the fraternity. I do not understand why TKE was even associated with the incident," she said.

Dr. Ortenzi ruled—wherever three fraternity members are together it will be considered a fraternity function.

A number of fraternity officials have said it is up to the Inter-Fraternity Council to put a fraternity on social probation, not the dean of students.

In a prepared statement to Dr. Sils, the six fraternities said, "it does not seem fair that the entire fraternity and accordingly the whole Greek system on campus be placed in jeopardy because of the actions of three individuals."

In an open letter to Dr. Sils, the editorial staff of the "Stroud Courier," the student newspaper, asked Dr. Sils to override Dr. Ortenzi's decision.

While admitting the actions of the men "degraded the Warriors and our school spirit," the staff said disciplinary action should be taken against the men as individuals.

"You have indicated you want student involvement and that you will react to student influence. If you are sincere in this indication, show us your respect for student rights by revoking this punishment now," the letter said.

Among the three involved were two star wrestlers — Richard T. Schumacher of Tallman, N.Y., and Alan Detwiler of Califon, N.J.

Art Center chairman on panel

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Marcia Clapp Deltocco, East Stroudsburg, chairman and founder the Pocono Art Center, will take part in a panel discussion on problems facing the state's art institutions and organizations in Harrisburg on October 26 in the William Penn Memorial Museum.

The panelists represent a broad spectrum of the arts and cultural services, including schools, art centers, orchestras, theatres, foundations and governmental agencies in the cultural field.

The state-wide conference is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Artistic and Cultural Endeavor (PACE). PACE is a non-profit organization, founded in late 1967, designed to focus attention on the arts in the Commonwealth.

The organization also works closely with the government-appointed Pennsylvania Council on the Arts.

E-burg police probe crash

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg Police Sunday at 7:07 p.m. investigated a two-car accident in the intersection of N. Courtland and W. Broad Streets. They reported no injuries.

The drivers were John Armitage of 85 W. Broad St., East Stroudsburg and David Gilliland of 30 Grandview St., East Stroudsburg.

According to police, Armitage was attempting a left turn onto W. Broad and his car and the Gilliland car collided. Gilliland also was traveling north at the time of the accident.

Police estimate damage to the Armitage car as $200 and $300 to the Gilliland vehicle.

Innovation essential, teachers hear

BEDFORD — Three area teachers who attended the 19th annual Department of Classroom Teachers conference of the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) here last weekend were challenged to look to the future and accept innovation as essential for the improvement of education.

They were Douglas Schoonover, president of the East Stroudsburg Area Teacher's Assn.; Robert L. Wolbert, president of Stroudsburg Area Teacher's Assn.; and H. Kenneth Lee, secondary teacher, Stroudsburg Area High School.

In the keynote address, Alma Kay Crawford, an art teacher in the Dover schools, told the nearly 400 teachers attending the three-day meeting that they must be ready to channel the questioning and creative child and the enthusiasm of the bright-eyed scholar. They must also direct the interest of the clock-watcher and delinquent so that never again will we have another Lee Harvey Oswald.

Miss Crawford, president of the department of classroom teachers, largest PSEA unit, urged teachers statewide to be constantly alert to changing methods and new teaching discoveries and theories.

"We must be ready to evaluate, criticize and select, and we must constantly seek out new ideas," she stressed.

"Every teacher must stand tall and hold his head higher when success is achieved in science, medicine, law or any other field of human endeavor, for no matter where the results are recorded, it started with a teacher."

"To the public, we are the schools and we are education. It is therefore imperative that we have the unflinching courage to present the cause of education in a firm intelligent manner."

Delegates also heard from Bruce Eckman, president of the Association of Classroom Teachers of the National Education Association, and Dr. Cecil J. Hanna, associate executive secretary of the NEA.

They also participated in discussion sessions on discipline, improving teacher-classroom behavior, innovations, religious literature, and education and civil disobedience.

Load shifts, rig flips

HAWLEY — State Police from Milford Monday at 5:20 p.m. investigated a truck accident on Rt. 402 about eight miles from Hawley. They reported no injuries.

Police said Warren Bucheck of Levittown was driving a truck loaded with lumber north on Rt. 402 and he attempted to make a turn onto a legislative route. The load shifted and caused the truck to roll over.

Total damage is estimated by police at $3,000.

Kathy Petersen of East Stroudsburg embroiders during a quiet moment in Anatole France's play, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," that was presented at East Stroudsburg State College this week. Reading at the desk is Walter Lessum of Willow Grove, Pa. He had the male lead as the husband. Kathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Petersen, 463 Youngwood Drive, played the female lead as the "dumb wife." The comedy was presented by ESSC's dramatic club, Mask 'N Zany under the direction of Robert Howell of the Speech Department.

Candidates reveal possible federal trends

No education policy changes foreseen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Regardless of who takes over the new administration in Washington next January, no drastic changes are likely in federal educational policies.

A close look at what presidential candidates Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon have said on the subject of education reveals some probable trends for the future, however.

In general, Humphrey, the Democratic candidate, has emphasized a need for new educational programs, particularly for the disadvantaged, which would be funded directly by the federal government.

GOP nominee Nixon, on the other hand, has supported the idea of federal allocations to states for use as the states and their school districts see fit.

Nixon also has stressed the need for an expansion of vocational education. He has said the United States should assure that every youngster entering high school should come out with "at least one marketable skill."

"New emphasis is needed," Nixon said, "on centering placement services within the nation's high schools."

Humphrey has said that Americans "must be willing to pay the cost of quality education at all levels."

He suggests a national pre-school program available to all children from the age of four; an arrangement under which staying in school through college would be placed on an ability to learn basis, as distinguished from an ability to pay basis; educational centers to develop innovative teaching tools in all 50 states, and some 25 centers of advanced study in high school and college education.

Nixon has urged in the current campaign that employers be given tax credits for providing high school dropouts—and high school graduates—with what he terms "skills to make their own way in the marketplace of an automated society."

Both candidates have come out in support of state and federal actions to insure effective action to bring about school integration.

On the always-touchy issue of federal, state and local relations on educational policy, the Democrats say: "Our aim is to maintain state-local control over the nation's education system, with federal financial assistance and help in stimulating changes through demonstration and technical assistance."

The Republicans: "We will urge the states to present plans for federal assistance which would include state distribution of such aid to nonpublic school children and include nonpublic school representatives in the planning process."

Skiing areas report best season in '67

WILKES-BARRE — Skiing areas from seven northeastern counties of Pennsylvania had their best season last winter with 12 major ski facility owners and operators recording gross receipts of nearly two million dollars.

Information was released by the Economic Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania after an "economic impact study" of ski areas in Carbon, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Monroe, Pike, Schuylkill and Wayne counties.

According to the study, skiers also spent another six million dollars in support services such as lodging, meals, gas and oil purchases. The skiing industry therefore generated total expenditures of nearly eight million dollars in the local economy.

During the last five-year period, these gross receipts showed the highest per cent increase over previous years during the 1966-1967 season, a 54 per cent increase over the $1.2 million figure of 1965-66. There were 10 ski areas in operation during 1965-66 and 12 during the 1967-68 season which grossed the near two million dollars, but only a 7.8 per cent increase over the previous year.

Two significant factors which contribute to the annual percentage increase in receipts are the number of ski areas in operation and the weather (skiing) conditions. During the 1963-64 season, five areas operated and during 1964-65, there were eight ski areas.

Personnel employed year-round at the 12 ski areas surveyed totaled only 55. But, seasonal employees totaled 496. Total "winter season" payrolls in the 1967-68 amounted to $455,871 or 84 per cent of the "annual" payrolls of $543,730.

Operational days ranged from 39 to 107 with the average being 82 days. The wide margin is related to the extent to which snow making equipment was utilized.

The 12 ski areas could accommodate 21,835 patrons in a given day. The actual number of patron days for the season totaled 389,996 or based on the 82 average operational days, daily patronage averaged 4,756. This would reflect only 20 per cent of total capacity of all ski areas.

Each skier spent an estimated $19.80 per "ski day". This included lift tickets, rentals, meals, gas and oil for travel.

About 46 per cent of the skiers originated from Pennsylvania, 30 per cent from New Jersey, 13 per cent from New York, four per cent from Maryland, three per cent from Washington, D.C., and 4 per cent from other areas.

Promotional expenditures totaled $99,600 with 56 per cent for ski shows, billboards, brochures and public relations; 40 per cent, newspapers; five per cent radio and less than one per cent for television.

This was the second annual study of the Council to determine the size of the ski industry and the economic impact to the seven-county district. Detailed questionnaires were utilized. Certain ski areas were unable to give specific data and based upon the available information, estimates were made. John S. Davidson, president of the Council, reported.

Here's how to buy building materials without going out of your mind

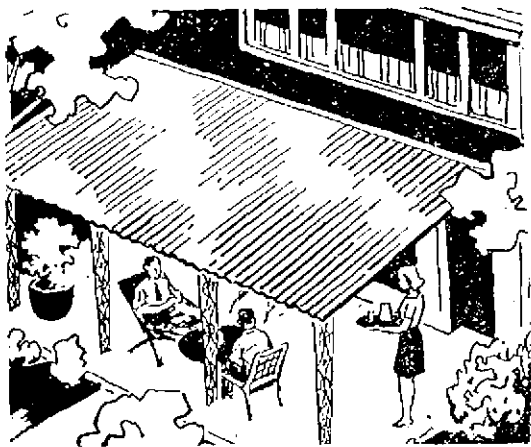

Just Follow These Instructions . . .

First off, you should have a copy of Cramer's Building Materials Catalogue. It shows the sizes and prices of just about anything you might want to use in your home. To be quite honest about it, the prices of almost everything have increased slightly so it may be a little off, but it's a great guide.

Next thing to do after you've got an idea of what you want and the approximate cost, is to make a list of the questions you've got. No matter how much we put in that catalogue there's still bound to be a few questions unanswered.

Now comes the crucial part . . . haul yourself down to the lumber company and ask those questions, place your order and prepare to go to work.

Notice we didn't say you had to go to a Cramer's Cashway. There're lots of good ones with other names. (Now here comes the pitch.) The men at Cramer's pay just as much attention to you as they do to every customer, no matter how much you buy, or they do. And they'll know the answers to those questions you've written down. And naturally you'll get the lowest prices. Cramer's Cashway is famous for that.

Where's prosperity? small towns ask

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's small cities and towns must wonder sometimes about all that prosperity the United States is supposed to be enjoying.

Many are dying, fatally wounded by snowballing urbanization, the malady that makes the biggest cities bigger—often against their will—while sapping the small places of their population.

If the cities were growing healthy and strong on migration and giving all comers a better life, the nation would probably have a nostalgic sigh for the withering of rural America but write it off as inevitable.

But it doesn't work that way. An invisible tipping point seems to have been passed by many cities. Continued growth is pulling some down, not up.

Between now and the end of the century, census forecasters say, the U.S. population—already 70 per cent urban—will rise by 100 million, with 80 million of that increase registered in urban areas.

And while "megapolitis" gags on the force-feeding of population, many rural areas can't hold onto what they have.

For the recent small town high school graduate or the displaced farmer admitting at last that a machine is more than his equal in the fields, the problem is the same: the jobs are in the metropolitan areas.

And so they go. Still, some places fight back. Bankers and farmers are retired judges and storekeepers get together, proclaim themselves an "industrial development commission," and go industry-hunting.

They are often rebuffed. What industry wants is, many times, more than the small town has to offer.

And even if the town does measure up the prospects may hang back—especially if the factory will be the community's first.

It's unfamiliar work for many grassroots leaders. And though there's help in Washington—planning assistance, sewer grants, loans—the red tape can be formidable.

They're often stumped by what Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., calls "the where-do-we-get-the-money problem."

"I think I am as astute about getting money as anybody else around here," Dingell said at a House hearing on problems of small towns, "but the truth is we have so many places to go that it is really hurting the programs."

An even more basic problem is how, in a society that prides itself on upward mobility, migration can be steered into healthier channels without pushing people around or foreclosing the individual's right to seek greener pastures.

"It just seems to me to be illogical to have a national policy that consciously or unconsciously draws more people into these cities," said Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., a member of the Kerner Commission.

Harris and Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., have submitted a bill that would use tax incentives to attract industries to depressed nonmetropolitan counties, those lacking a city of 50,000. It also proposes spending $20 million on job training in rural areas.

In the executive branch of the government the coaxing of industry to small towns and cities is carried on almost exclusively by the Department of Agriculture. One of Secretary Orville L. Freeman's priority projects, it typifies his efforts to identify Agriculture in the public mind as a "rural affairs" department rather than one concerned only with farm problems.

Freeman, who has daily commuted to work through some of Washington's most punishing traffic, feels it's madness on a national scale to allow super-urbanization to continue on a rudderless course.

Traffic strangulation, substandard housing, crime, long-souring air and a host of other problems they can't cope with keep many cities tottering near the breakdown point, powerless to help themselves, he said in an interview.

With Congress turning the screw for lower expenditures on one side and other critics charging existing governmental services are being emasculated, there is little administration demand for ambitious new domestic programs.

Freeman argues that big money isn't essential.

What girls think boys like
By JEAN ADAMS

GIRLS ON GUYS: Recently I asked boys for comments about the important things they look for in a girl. Replies came in from Maine to California, but most were from girls. Here's what they think boys like:

(1) "I've found that the best way to a boy's heart is to act myself."
(2) "When a boy goes by, I always give him a big smile and say 'Hello.'"
(3) "Don't let a boy know how much you really like him."
(4) "A boy likes a girl who'll listen to him and laugh at his jokes."
(5) "Boys prefer a girl who walks with a swing, not with a swagger."
(6) "Always look a boy in the eye."
(7) "Boys prefer a neat dresser."
(8) "Once you're sure your boy friend is deeply interested in you, do not purposely make him jealous."
(9) "A boy wants his girl to sit like a lady, even in jeans."
(10) "My boy friend dislikes girls who gossip."
(11) "A girl should be happy and FUN to be with."
(12) "Boys prefer girls who are not self-conscious about their figures, but do not advertise them."
(13) "A girl should improve on nature—but in moderation. No movie-star jazz."
(14) "Boys do not like girls who load their pockets with junk."
(15) "Don't rush things. Friendships usually start casually and build to a deeper meaning in time."

Braggart: (Q) I read your column all the time and think it's great. Now, I have a personal question.
I like a boy who is very nice, but he brags too much. How can I get him to stop hurting himself by bragging?

A Reader in White Hall, Md.

(A.) Too much boasting certainly is one of the most unattractive things we can do.

Tips about apples!

Now...right now, is the time to buy apples. Right now at A&P, apples are at their best. Here are some apple buying and handling tips:

SELECT APPLES THAT ARE FIRM, particularly the larger sizes. Big apples tend to mature more rapidly, and when soft, usually have a mealy texture.

REFRIGERATE YOUR APPLES. Warm temperatures cause apples to lose their crispness and tangy flavor.

QUICK PEELING TIP: If you are going to cook apples, dip them quickly in and out of boiling water. The skin will come off much more readily.

TO PREVENT DISCOLORATION OF PEELED APPLES, place slices in a pan of cold water. Add a pinch of salt for each whole apple peeled.

LEAKING PIES: Sprinkle salt on spilled juice from pies in a hot oven. The juice will burn crisply, making it easier to remove.

DISCOLORATION OF ALUMINUM UTENSILS can be removed by boiling a number of apple peelings in the utensil.

THE BEST TIP OF ALL: Don't miss the wonderful selection, the great apple values A&P has right now.

School taxes rise in county

Record Washington Bureau
HARRISBURG — For those Monroe County taxpayers wondering just how much (not whether!) their school taxes increased during the 1967-68 school year over the preceding year — the answer is $168,594, with the total school tax take for the county standing at $4,456,865, for the past school year.

School real estate taxes for the county climbed from $3,443,030 in the 1966-67 school year to $3,735,656 last year, while per capita taxes for school purposes in the county dropped from $113.145 to $109.202, according to a study by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Another major tax source showing a decrease embraced those levies under Act 511 (the so-called "local tax anything law") which for the county as a whole dipped (although increases were noted in some districts within the county) from $540,710 in 1966-67 to $514,467 last year.

Interesting too, the so-called "local tax effort" for the county (that is, actual tax millage in relation to market value) moved from a county average of 17.3 mills in 1966-67 to 18.0 mills last year.

Here is the way the tax revenue picture shaped up for school districts within Monroe County during the 1967-68 school year:

Stroudsburg Area School District: total taxes revenue — $1,365,950; real estate tax revenue — $1,113,250; per capita taxes — $40,000; Act 511 taxes — $186,200; "other" tax revenue — $26,500; total district tax millage — 19.3 mills.

East Stroudsburg School District: total taxes revenue — $1,314,261; real estate tax revenue — $1,049,782; per capita taxes — $27,707; Act 511 taxes — $209,772; "other" tax revenue — $27,000; total district tax millage — 21.2 mills.

Pleasant Valley School District: total taxes revenue — $189,629; real estate tax revenue — $404,639; per capita taxes — $13,495; Act 511 taxes — $61,495; "other" tax revenue — $10,000; total district tax millage — 10.4 mills.

Pocono Mountain School District: total taxes revenue —

$1,286,025; real estate tax revenue — $1,168,025; per capita taxes — $27,000; Act 511 taxes — $57,000; "other" tax revenue — $34,000; total district tax millage — 14.4 mills.

In neighboring Pike County school taxes increased during the 1967-68 school year over the preceding year — to the tune of $9,305, with the following breakdown for Delaware Valley School District:

Total taxes revenue: $523,950 ($514,645 during 1966-67 school year); real estate taxes — $502,250 ($465,736); per capita tax revenue — none (same); Act 511 taxes — $20,000 ($25,151); total district tax millage — 13.1 mills in 1967-68 and compared with 12.9 mills in 1966-67.

Monroe County deeds

STROUDSBURG — Leonard H. and Mathilde V. Freas, Philadelphia, have purchased a tract of 19,788 square feet in Polk Township for $20,500 according to a deed filed in the Monroe County register and recorder's office.

The tract was purchased from Roger E. and Mary A. Arnold, Polk Township.

Other deeds recorded were: POLK TOWNSHIP — New 1901 Corporation, Philadelphia, to Manfred Lechell, Warminster, Pa.; and Florence E. Dorshimer, Polk Township to William E. and Lillian E. Dorshimer and Ronald and Joyce Dorshimer, all of Polk Township.

TOBYHANNA TOWNSHIP — Lake Naomi Realty Corporation, Stroudsburg, to Alexander C. and Joyce E. McCurdy.

ELDRD TOWNSHIP — Richard A. and Doris M. Costenbader, Eldred Township, to Ruby A. and Allen A. Mackes, Eldred Township.

SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP — Van D. and Katherine A. Yetter, Smithfield, to Green Mountain Estates, Inc., Smithfield Township.

If you have a desire to start antique collecting, a good place to start is with "shaving mugs." Little knowledge of the collector is required and it is an inexpensive collector's item.

An outstanding place in the old barbershop was a wall cabinet divided into small cubicles into which was placed the customers' decorated shaving mugs. These mugs were tantamount to a local business directory. Each carried the owner's name and often a symbol of his trade.

The mugs with pictured symbols are the ones you should look for. For instance, the milkman's mug was decorated with a wagon filled with milk cans dating the mug before the time of milk bottles. Mugs that have horses used for any kind of transportation or delivery should be considered a good find.

Other types of mugs one may find are those symbolizing the indoor trades such as shoemaker, butcher, bartender. There is a group of mugs dedicated to members of the sports. If you come upon a mug of a well-known sportsman it is valuable.

Sometimes a single mug was used jointly by members of a volunteer fire company. These were usually decorated with a hook and ladder.

Decorating shaving mugs was a humble trade. It was usually done by unskilled artists. Most of the scenery found on mugs were taken from newspaper and magazine advertisements. The most valuable mugs are the ones with names of famous people and secondly, the occupational mugs.

The above is an original shaving mug rack with mugs dating from 1800 to 1920.

Questions and answers

Q. I have a grandfather's clock with the date 1733 on it and one with wooden works inside. It has the carving of the head of Columbus. Can you give me information on these?

A. We know from advertisements that a Henry Flower made cabinet clocks between 1753 and 1775 in Philadelphia. The earliest Tall Clocks had metal dials, the cases were without ornamentation and sometimes attachments such as a calendar or phases of the moon were added to the clocks. Your clock with the wooden works is definitely a collector's clock. The first clock makers were recruited from the ranks of carpenters. The oldest American clocks were constructed of wood. Eli Terry of Connecticut was one of the first and best known clock makers and his first clocks had wooden pendulums. Most sought after by collectors are clocks made before 1850.

Q. How come there are still so many spinning wheels still around?

A. It is said that around 1776 there were three million spinning wheels in use and by 1812 six million were being used.

Tape recorders play major role

Paul Fenner, sixth grade student at Hamilton Elementary School, listens to a tape recording made by his sixth grade teacher, Mrs. LaVonne Kupice, who was in another part of the classroom teaching a different group of sixth grade students in an example of Multi-Media in Stroudsburg District Schools.

Instruction of large groups coming back into education

SCIOTA — Large group instruction isn't ideal, most educators agree, but in its place it is revolutionizing education today.

One of the pioneers in this sort of education is the Hamilton Elementary School, a division of the Stroudsburg Area School District.

It is the general consensus of opinion among educators that a little noise means nothing as long as the children are interested and enthusiasm is generated.

Fifty pupils in one room seems to go against all basic school learning precepts, but not when applied to certain subjects such as art and music.

Woodrow Berger, principal at Hamilton, said that large group instruction allows for teacher and pupil flexibility and releases a teacher for classroom work and planning.

"We also are cross grouping children within the same grade. Grouping allows a child to be put in that certain group where he can make the best progress," Berger explained.

An example of large-group instruction, is the Hamilton fifth-grade music program, which has introduced a revolutionary system, the "Kodaly System" for learning the rhythm and timing of notes.

The students pronounce a one quarter note with a simple

"Ta," a half note, "Ta-ah" and a three-quarters note, "Ta-Ah-Ah."

The system was invented by Zoltan Kodaly, a Hungarian composer who along with Bela Bartok, has produced some of the finest symphonic works of the 20th Century.

In another recent innovation at Hamilton an example of the use of "Multi-Media" was being conducted by Mrs. LaVonne Kupice, sixth grade reading teacher who was teaching one sixth-grade group while another group listened to her instructions via a tape recorder and earphones. Both groups were in the same classroom.

Hamilton can point with special pride to its kindergarten room where a doll house is the answer to a child's dream, both inside and outside the house.

The house was made by Mrs. Beverly Shelley, kindergarten teacher and her husband with the additional handiwork of 28 kindergarten pupils.

A television antenna, a tree with fall leaves and bushes made out of curled strips of green paper decorated the outside of the doll house.

Inside was a sink with wooden faucets, wallpaper put up by the pupils, a stove, chairs, tables and a wall cupboard. Even the windowsills sported colorful flowers made out of crepe paper.

This all creates interest and brings about better students

Listening to instructions

Rodger Dunning, Stroudsburg's elementary School supervisor, listens in on Mrs. Kupice's instructions to Sheri Pysher as Bruce Buzzard, on Dunning's right, maintains a stoical calm.

Pasting colored figures

Mrs. Louise Neal, second grade art teacher looks like she's singing to her class, "Everything's Coming Up Roses," as the boys and girls paste colored trees, birds and houses on white cardboard sheets.

Naps part of kindergarten class

Diana Swallow, a student teacher from East Stroudsburg State College, keeps an eye on Hamilton School kindergarten students during their nap period. Of course, there always has to be a couple of "peekers" in the crowd.

Time for play

Linda Gerhardt, a member of the Hamilton School kindergarten, is shown washing dishes during one of the "work and play" periods in the school's "playhouse."

Czech fate dilemma to NATO

BRUSSELS (AP) — Surprised and worried by the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—NATO—now is trying to do two things at once: Strengthen its defenses and still make friends with the Soviet bloc.

The two efforts may sound contradictory but member governments insist they are not. And even if neither of them gets far, NATO's main job will be done if it can just go on existing as the symbol and the machinery that link the defense of America and Western Europe.

It now seems likely to be able to do at least that.

Next year is the 20th for the alliance. And for the first time, any of the 15 members can pull out if it wants to. There had been some fear that President Charles de Gaulle, who has pulled France out of the NATO military structure, would decide to withdraw from the pact altogether. Others might have followed.

After Czechoslovakia such withdrawals seem much less likely. Whether defenses actually will be strengthened depends on the extent that member governments keep their most recent pledges, which would cost them billions of dollars.

To emphasize urgency, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the foreign ministers of the other members have decided to hold their semiannual meeting in mid-November instead of mid-December. It took six weeks of discussion to reach that decision.

The NATO reason for the delay was the insistence of the United States that its European allies pledge themselves to new defense moves. Americans argued that advancing the date would be an empty gesture unless the meeting itself had some concrete decisions to announce.

There were many reasons why this was pressed. An influential American official cited one of them.

"What would have happened," he asked, "if the West Germans had quickly decided to raise their defense spending 25 per cent? It might not have frightened the Russians much, but it certainly would have frightened the other West Europeans."

Because of the history of World War II, West Germans are unwilling to take the lead in defense matters though they have the biggest force in Western Europe. Instead, there was a "collective initiative."

Twelve of the allies were expected to spend roughly $100 billion on defense over the next five years. The United States, France, and Iceland—which has no military force—are not included in this figure. The promises made after Czechoslovakia would increase this spending by 2.5 to 15 per cent, depending on the country.

The main pledge is to bring manpower, equipment and training of forces up to NATO standards. As a result of this and other promises it is expected that, among other things:

—Britain and Belgium will reverse decisions to pull some of their troops out of West Germany.

—Holland will reseed cuts in its military spending.

—West Germany, Holland and Italy will improve their systems of calling up reserves in an emergency.

—The United States will bring back for winter exercises the bulk of the 35,000 men it has taken out of West Germany in recent months. Normally these men would not have come back to Europe to train for another year or more. There are no plans to return them permanently to Europe.

The 15 member governments, including De Gaulle's, agree that the danger from the Soviet Union has increased since the invasion of Czechoslovakia. There are more Soviet troops closer to the West, more dangers that a conflict in the Communist area will spill into the West, more uncertainties about the West's ability to gauge Soviet intentions.

Nevertheless, the NATO countries intend to keep plugging for better relations.

Before the Soviet-led move into Czechoslovakia, Moscow and Washington were on the verge of announcing the start of talks on limiting strategic missiles. The announcement had to be cancelled. So were a lot of official visits, sports contests, theatrical performances and a host of other gestures of friendship between the NATO countries and those that joined in the invasion.

After the new U.S. administration is in place and the shock of Czechoslovakia has worn off, it is expected that many if not all these contacts will be renewed.

Opening lead—jack of hearts.

This hand occurred in a pair tournament. Six clubs would have been a more normal contract, but South was shooting for a top score by playing the hand in notrump.

The contract was sound enough; in fact, seven clubs would also have been quite reasonable, though it would have gone down in this case, because of the 4-1 trump division.

West led a heart against six notrump and South decided to take every possible precaution to make the hand. Accordingly, he won with the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, and led a low club towards dummy.

When West followed with the nine, declarer permitted it to win the trick. This proved to be a very wise move, as later events proved. West returned a heart and South easily took the rest of the trick. He won the heart, led a club to the queen, discarded a spade on the king of diamonds, and thus made the slam.

But suppose South had played the hand without making due allowance for a 4-1 club break. Let's say he won the heart lead, cashed the ace of diamonds, and then led a club to the queen, as many players probably would.

He would then have gone down after cashing the king of diamonds and discarding a spade on it. He would be unable to run the clubs without first conceding a trick in that suit, and as soon as he did this, East would cash his queen of diamonds for the setting trick.

The safety play of conceding a club trick before cashing the king of diamonds has much to recommend it. The danger of a 4-1 club break is more than imaginary—it occurs in 28 deals out of 100—and declarer should protect against the possibility whenever the circumstances demand it.
